Closing of Parley Now Well in Sight With Pact Settled

Short Plenary Session to Be Held Monday and Another on Thursday for Signing of the Treaty Within a Treaty—Delegates Congratulating Themselves on Good Spirit Prevailing

Good Will Is General and Results Considered Good

LONDON, April 11.—(Associated Press) The London Naval Conference, with its treaty within a treaty built as a new beacon on the road to disarmament, is rapidly nearing its close and may end at the plenary session next Thursday with the signing of the London Treaty. This will follow a similar plenary meeting of brief duration on Monday, and the drafting of a five-power treaty—which embodies the three-power agreement reached by Great Britain, the United States and Japan—is being rushed day and night. The only thing that might delay the wind-up on Thursday would be the inability of the pact writers to agree upon terminology in so short a time.

CELEBRATE SUCCESS
Today the delegations celebrated the success with which the London parley is terminating—success achieved with dramatic effects yesterday after almost the last vestige of hope for any sort of a five-power agreement had been surrendered.

As the London negotiations near the end an atmosphere of amiable conciliation has supplanted the stubborn attitude which showed in the long weeks since the parley opened.

Both are glad to escape the dilemma facing them here and return home triumphant in having kept the flag of national naval demands waving. Now they can continue negotiations later and perhaps reach an accord which never would have been possible in the

Lord Dewar Is Dead and Will Be Great Loss

EAST GRINSTEAD, SUSSEX, England, April 11.—Lord Dewar, head of the famous whisky distilling firm of John Dewar & Sons, Ltd., died unexpectedly today at "The Homestead," his residence here.

Lord Dewar, who was sixty-six years old, had been confined to the house for some days with a chill, but his condition was not regarded as serious. He collapsed in the afternoon and died soon afterward. He was a brother of Lord Porteviot, who died in November.

Although head of one of the world's greatest whisky producing companies, Lord Dewar was a non-drinker.

He was famed for his wit and was in special demand as an after-dinner speaker. His epigrams were widely quoted.

One time, it is related, he sat beside a young woman at an athletic event. She was very proud of her hyperbated name.

"My name is Smythe-Smythe, with a hyphen," she said.

"Oh," said Lord Dewar, "mine is Dewar-Dewar with a siphon."

VOTE FOR REPEAL

REMANDED ON CHARGE OF MURDER

David Brotherston Is Arraigned in Court for Fatally Wounding William Walker

CORONER'S JURY HEARS WITNESSES

Story of Shooting and Attendant Circumstances Related at Inquest Held Yesterday Morning

CHARGED with the murder of William Walker, at Albert Head, last Wednesday, David Brotherston appeared in the Provincial Police Court yesterday afternoon, and was remanded by Stipendiary Magistrate George Jay for preliminary hearing next Thursday.

Earlier in the day an inquest had been held by Dr. E. C. Hart, provincial coroner, in McCall's Funeral Chapel, and the jury had brought in the verdict that Walker "came to his death from wounds inflicted from a gun in the hands of David Brotherston." At the inquest Mr. A. M. Johnson, K.C., appeared for the Attorney-General's Department, and Mr. H. A. Maclean, K.C., for David Brotherston.

Brotherston's account of the shooting as told to Corporal R. Harvey and Constable W. P. Hughes, of the Provincial Police, when they were in the Walker house on Wednesday night, was put in evidence at the inquest as follows:

"I was standing here, and he (Walker) was standing there—"

Col. Ralston Returns Home From Parley

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.
SHEFFIELD, April 11.—The Right Hon. A. Y. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, estimates the three-power naval pact will mean a saving to Great Britain and the British taxpayer of between $300,000,000 and $350,000,000 during the five years of its operation.

Speaking here tonight, the First Lord of the Admiralty analyzed the three-power treaty and showed that the reduction of tonnage which it effected, when compared with the tonnage proposed by the Geneva Tripartite Conference of 1927, would involve the following economies:

Extension of the Washington battleship replacement holiday—saving, $250,000,000.

Premature scrapping of five battleships—saving, $20,000,000 in maintenance charges.

Smaller construction and maintenance charges for submarines—saving, $15,000,000.

Motorist to Pay Hospital Where Injured Treated

LONDON, April 11.—The parliamentary committee which is considering the road traffic bill has insisted on retaining the clause which requires an insured motorist to pay up to $125 to any hospital which has treated an injured person, on whose account the motorist has received the insurance.

The Minister of Transport, Hon. Herbert Morrison, declares the clause is unworkable, and he offered to meet the committee's wishes in some other way, but the committee, by two to one majority, insisted upon retention.

EX-MAYOR DEFEATED

PORT MOODY, April 11.—By a margin of five votes, Mr. A. H. Alexander succeeded to office as mayor of Port Moody over the retiring mayor, Mr. W. H. Mills, in a poll held here today. Mr. Alexander polled 137 votes against 132 for Ex-Mayor Mills. One vote was spoiled.

ROBBED AT HOTEL

MONTREAL, April 11.—Mrs. Lauch Wylie, of Vancouver, guest at a local hotel, has reported to the police the loss of a novelty bag containing valuables which, with the bag itself, are valued at $5,000.

LOOK FOR ARREST

Police Believe They Possess Names of Bandits Who Tried Holdup of Vancouver Bank

VANCOUVER, April 11.—Police stated tonight they believed they were in possession of the names and addresses of the two men who attempted to hold up the Canadian Bank of Commerce branch at 2601 Broadway West, today at 10:15 a.m.

Detectives visited a rooming house where the two live and found they had fled a short time before, police say. Tonight police forces in surrounding municipalities were co-operating in the search and, police declared, unless they succeeded in breaking through the cordon their arrests were only a matter of time.

Popular Peer Is Dead

BARON Dewar, of Homestead, who died yesterday at his home at East Grinstead, Sussex, England, was widely known in consequence of his connection with the famous distillery, but he had numerous other wide business connections, especially in the city of London. He was greatly sought after as a wit, and many of his humorous sayings, epigrams and keen repartees have become known the world over.

Tariff Board Head Attacked in House In Supply Debate

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, April 11.—Interest of a sparsely attended Commons Chamber was aroused this afternoon by criticism directed against W. H. Moore, chairman of the Tariff Advisory Board, on the ground that, while a member of the Civil Service, he was active politically. Estimates of the Department of Public Works were under discussion. The seats of the Prime Minister, the Leader of the Opposition, and many members who have departed for the Easter vacation, were vacant, and Hon. J. C. Elliott, Minister of Public Works, was piloting the votes through a dull committee when Dr. T. E. Kaizer, Conservative member for Ontario, took the floor. He asked the indulgence of the constituency while he discussed certain matters of interest to his constituency.

INSUFFICIENT VOTES

Dr. Kaizer began by stating that Oshawa harbor was in bad condition and needed the attention of the Government. He regarded the estimate for Oshawa and Whitby harbors as quite insufficient. In the case of the first-named harbor the sum of $50,000 is provided in the estimates and in the case of the second $40,000.

"I want to know who it is that finds a way to the Government and gets these small votes put in the estimates," remarked Dr. Kaizer. "I want the minister to tell me whether it is right that one of the highest paid civil servants in the Dominion of Canada should exercise that kind of power? Is the only avenue to this Government through the civil service of this country?"

"In 1926 we had an election and a gentleman in the person of Mr. W. H. Moore was my opponent," proceeded Dr. Kaizer. "He was defeated, and then the Government put him at the head of the tariff board. I will say that I think the Government made a good choice. I am not complaining about Mr. Moore's appointment to the tariff board."

CAUSE OF COMPLAINT

His complaint was that Mr. Moore retained his influence with the Government in matters respecting the tariff.

TRUCK SKIDS AND MAN IS KILLED

(Canadian Press)
SASKATOON, Sask., April 11.—James H. Waller, sixty, was killed Thursday night when returning by truck with W. Seabrook from Lantz. About two and a half miles from Guernsey the truck skidded and Mr. Waller was thrown against the windshield.

He was cut about the head so seriously that he expired from loss of blood before Dr. J. C. Hindson could arrive.

FLOOD AVERTED

Dynamiting of Big Ice Blockade on Assiniboine River Removes Fear of Inundation

(Canadian Press)
WINNIPEG, April 11.—Dynamite charges, set off by a small army of farmers and volunteers rushed from nearby towns, broke up a big ice blockade along the Assiniboine River between St. Francois Xavier and Headingley today. Tonight there was a decided improvement in the flood situation. The breaking of the ice blockade brought immediate relief, and the danger to Winnipeg suburbs, which disappeared with the clearing of the river. Headingley is but twelve miles west of the city. Hundreds of acres of farm lands had been inundated during the past two days, but reports from river points tonight said the flood waters were steadily receding.

Dr. A. R. Fee to Be Buried Sunday

Fee, brilliant graduate of the University of British Columbia, who died recently in London, England, from pneumonia. The remains arrived in Vancouver yesterday. Burial will be in the Masonic Cemetery, Burnaby.

Dr. Fee was twenty-four years of age.

Footballers will be members of faculty of the University of British Columbia.

FRENCH ARE QUIET OVER NAVAL PACT

Press Has No Editorial Comment on Result Attained at Conference Now Concluding

SECURITY IS MAIN CONCERN OF PEOPLE

Fear Is Felt That British and U.S. Approach May Diplomatically Affect Relations

By JOHN GUTHRIE
(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)

PARIS, France, April 11.—Not a single important French newspaper today prints a single word of editorial comment as the London Naval Conference winds up.

Most of the papers do not even carry the full details of the agreements reached by the five powers. This apathy has been apparent during the whole course of the conference. It reflects the universal French point of view that nothing matters but security, and that the only safe way to have security is to have a big navy too.

MUCH IS GAINED

Despite this lukewarm attitude, it is clear that France thinks that more has been gained by the conference than lost. Its achievements—if that is not too strong a word—might be listed thus, as the French look at them:

1. The French naval statute, on which the building programme rests, remains essentially unmodified.

SPAIN QUIET AS ORDER IS COMING BACK

By OLIVER FOX
(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)

MADRID, Spain, April 11.—Political activity is reawakening with the Spanish Cabinet's authorization of meetings, banquets and even speeches if, however, all are supervised by the censor.

Republicans are reported to be numerous and active, but divided into no less than seven groups advocating every Republican system known. Their former chief, Alejandro Lerroux, is endeavoring to form a full alliance, for in default of union, the Republicans cannot hope to win many seats in the coming elections.

SOCIALISTS INDEPENDENT

The Socialist party announces its intention to remain independent of the Republicans, with whom it was allied in the days before the dictatorship.

Bites Into Cap Of Dynamite and Is to Be Buried

PORT ANGELES, Wash., April 11.—Biting into a dynamite cap, Jack Schiltz, seventy, employee of a transfer company and resident here for twenty years, was instantly killed here today. The blast set fire to his bed, blew two windows out and felled a man who was passing by Schiltz's shack.

Schiltz was dependent over suffering from a leg injury which had become gangrenous and was worried because health officers were coming to remove him to a hospital.

Sweltering Heat With Blistering Winds Sweep Over States

KANSAS CITY, April 11.—A winter which established numerous all-time marks for heavy snowfall and cold intensity has been superseded in the Southwest by a record-smashing dry, hot Spring which today has resulted in sweltering temperatures and much concern over crop damage.

Generally predicted showers failed to materialize and, although the Weather Bureau continued to predict possible precipitation, the hope of immediate relief was slight. South winds sweeping northward from Texas whirled dust over Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska. Wheat damage was reported in both Oklahoma and Kansas.

Partly or mostly cloudy weather was predicted today, however, for Missouri, Iowa, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. Similar weather was expected yesterday. The clouds are expected to be accompanied by slightly falling temperatures.

Wheat was reported damaged near Enid, Okla., and in South Dakota. Mr. S. Flora, state meteorologist for Kansas, said: "The wind is hurting the wheat. It is taking what little moisture is left out of the soil."

Cooler weather prevailed in Texas than farther north.

General Election Looms Large With Coming of Budget

Members of Federal House Leaving Ottawa for Easter Recess Will Make Preparations for Opening of Next Campaign—On Nature of Budget Will Depend Date on Which Fight Will Be Held

Liberal M.P. Says It Is Sure in Next Few Months

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, April 11.—After facing each other more or less continuously in the House of Commons since February 20 last, the two parliamentary leaders are speeding in opposite directions tonight. Premier Mackenzie King is on his way to Bermuda, and Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, is going to Calgary. While they are hurrying in opposite directions to spend their Easter recess, both of them will no doubt give very considerable thought during the interval to the same question—the general election.

MEMBERS GO HOME

Most of the ministers and private members of the Commons, as well as the senators, took leave today for their constituencies to be besieged with the oft-repeated query: "When will the election be?" Neither the ministers nor the private members will be able to give the folks back home much information in this regard.

The general impression among the members as they started for the trains was that the date of the election would, to a great extent, depend upon the budget. If it proved to be of a contentious nature, then Parliament might be dissolved, perhaps some time in May, and sixty days later the electors would vote. If the budget was not drastic enough to warrant an appeal to the people, the election might be put off until next year.

Senator Haydon has accompanied Mr. King to Bermuda. They sail from Halifax. The members of the Commons come back on April 28, and it is expected the budget will be brought down either April 30 or May 10. Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Finance, told the House today the budget speech would not be made either the first or second day after recess, so this will bring it into May.

DEFINITE SETTLEMENT

EDMONTON, April 11.—Mr. K. A. Blatchford, Liberal M.P., when interviewed here today, stated definitely that there will be a Federal election next August or September.

PART OF CIVIL SERVICE STAFF HAS INCREASE

Cheques are being issued to provincial civil servants in classes not previously dealt with for increases covering the fiscal year 1929-1930, it was announced at the Parliament Buildings yesterday.

The grades of the service to 111-a were given increases just before Christmas retroactive to April 1. It was announced at the time that the other grades of the service would be similarly treated as soon as the work entailed in arranging for a review of the civil service, as required by the Civil Service Act, could be completed.

This work was done and the Government, immediately the Legislature prorogued, sanctioned the recommendations of the departmental commissioner, concurred in by the deputies, permitting the details to be arranged for the issuance of the cheques covering the past year.

TO REVIEW GRADING

This now clears the way, it is stated, for Colonel R. Ross Napier, the departmental commissioner, to commence upon the initial work of reviewing the grading of the

Annuities to Be Considered for Judges of Court

(Canadian Press)
OTTAWA, April 11.—Legislation respecting annuities to judges of the Supreme Court of Canada and the Exchequer Court on reaching the age of seventy-five years is to be introduced at the present session of Parliament.

A resolution on the order paper of the House of Commons by Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, reads:

"That it is expedient to amend the Judges Act to provide for an annuity equal to his salary at the time he ceases or ceases to hold office, may be granted to a judge of the Supreme Court of Canada, or of the Exchequer Court of Canada, who held office on March 31, 1927, and continued or continues in office until he attained or attains seventy-five years of age; and that an annuity equal to two-thirds of the salary annexed to the office which such judge holds at the time he ceases to be a judge may be granted to a judge of the said courts, appointed after March 31, 1927, attaining seventy-five years of age after service of ten years in that office and as a judge of a provincial Superior Court."

Royal Society Awards of Honors for Canadians and Fellowships Made Public

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, April 11.—Awards of Canada's premier honors for literary, historical and scientific endeavor, and medals of the Royal Society of Canada, were announced tonight together with the election of thirteen new Fellows of the society. This year's Flavelle Medal, awarded for conspicuous achievements in science, goes to Dr. A. B. Macallum, of London, Ont., until recently professor of biochemistry at McGill University and one of the greatest living authorities in his own particular field of research. Dr. Macallum was president of the Royal Society of Canada, 1916-17. He is a Fellow of the Royal Society of London, and holds degrees from Dublin, Yale, Toronto, Aberdeen and McGill Universities.

NEW FELLOWS
New Fellows elected to the society are:
Section 1—Georges Bouchard, B.C., member of Parliament for Kamoussak.

Section 2—George Herbert Clarke, M.A., LL.D., professor of English, Queen's University; E. J. Pratt, M.A., Ph.D., University of Toronto; E. Fabre Surveyor, Judge of the Superior Court of Quebec, Montreal.

Section 3—H. E. Bigelow, dean of applied science, Mount Allison University, Sackville, N.B.; Robert J. Land, M.A., Ph.D., associate professor of physics, University of Alberta; Norman Richard Wilson, M.A., Ph.D., professor of mathematics, University of Manitoba, Winnipeg.

Section 4—Oliver Elmore Cairnes, Ph.D., associate geologist, Geological Survey, Ottawa; W. S. Dyer, B.A., Ph.D., Department of Mines, Toronto; O. P. Gelhansen, B.A., M.A., Ph.D., geologist, Geological Survey, Ottawa.

Section 5—Boris P. Babkin, M.D., D.Sc., professor of physiology, McGill University, Montreal; Robert Newton, faculty of agriculture, University of Alberta, Edmonton; Haridolphe Wasteneys, Ph.D., professor of biochemistry, University of Toronto.

These medals, together with the Tyrrell Medals for 1928 and 1929, awarded respectively to Senator Thomas Chaplin and Professor George M. Wrong, of Toronto University, will be presented at the annual meeting of the Royal Society at McGill University on May 20.

For Great Britain and the United States had been 500,000 tons each, plus 25 per cent for those over age 15, which gave the total of 737,500 tons to remain in force, under the Geneva plan until 1936.

BRITISH FIGURES LESS
Under the present three-power treaty the British figure was 155,000 tons, and the United States figure was 211,000 less than had been planned formerly. The Japanese were now content with 14,000 tons less than they had demanded before.

"In auxiliary tonnage, therefore," commented Mr. Alexander, "the reductions effected by the three powers combined, compared with the total tonnage of the Geneva proposals on which the 1927 conference broke down, are less by 200 tons."

A very significant indication of the progress of public opinion in the direction of disarmament. Another great achievement has been justly noted, and that is the tendency to build the largest size cruisers permitted under the Washington Treaty.

Hon. William Atkinson, Minister of Agriculture, and Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, Minister of Education, spoke on affairs respecting their respective portfolios.

Accorded a hearty ovation as he rose to speak, Mr. Howe acknowledged the warmth of the reception by giving a concise resume of the work of the session, particularly as it affected the riding. The Highway Act, Liquor Control Act, Fisheries, provincial institutions, university problems, the Fraser Avenue Bridge and many other issues were ably discussed.

FISHING INDUSTRY
Touching on the fishing industry, the minister voiced his intention of impressing on the Dominion Government the need for regulations which will enable the fishermen to make a living wage.

Mr. Atkinson reflected that it was thirty-nine years ago that he first sought employment in the district, when "the fertility of the soil was not all taken out by Chinese potato growers."

"There are twenty-three millions of acres of land suitable for agriculture in the province, and only 7 per cent of it is under cultivation," the minister pointed out as he stressed the need for more settlers.

"In addition we have 100 million acres of range land. We have 177,000 head of dairy cattle, with favorable prices for produce. The country, especially the Fraser Valley, is in a flourishing condition."

The increase in agricultural revenue last year was $68,000,000, as compared with $58,000,000 for the previous year, he pointed out as he commented on the progress being made. He dealt with the Peace River district, urging the encouraging of mixed farming and pointing out steps taken by the Government to assist settlers in this regard.

The situation, which appeared at one time to be highly threatening, was well in hand tonight.

SIMLA, India, April 11.—Disorganization among the forces of the civil restlessness under Mahatma Gandhi is reported as the first effect of the Government of India's policy in abstaining from making wholesale arrests in the numerous breaches of the salt law.

It is declared the effect of the Government's policy has been to cause the Mahatma to abandon his intention of making Ahmadabad a recruiting centre.

It is known that Gandhi's plans have been set back by the failure of the Government to take him under arrest for which he has been waiting for some days.

MART REOPENS
Tokio Stock Exchange Reopens From Stampede and Trading Again Becomes Orderly

(Associated Press)
TOKIO, April 12.—The Tokyo Stock Exchange reopened today after a one-day suspension. Trading was orderly and prices steady.

A stampede of selling yesterday, which led to wild scenes in the exchange and subsequent suspension, was characterized by cabinet members as a "panic" managed by opponents of the administration.

Exchange officials announced a one-hour suspension when the bear panic followed reopening. A near panic followed reopening and all trading for the day was called off. Heads of leading banks conferred on the situation, but no announcement was made by them.

TREMENDOUS ADVANCE
"I think," Mr. Alexander added, "that in such circumstances it would be futile for anyone to describe this conference as a failure. It should rather be described as a tremendous advance along the road which leads to disarmament."

He should, of course, be recognized," Mr. Alexander remarked later, "that each of the parties to the three-power treaty will have to be protected by the treaty so that they may adjust their position, if necessary, to meet any large expansion in the programmes of outside powers."

"For example," said the First Lord pointedly, "our reduced destroyer tonnage would leave us in a position to be materially affected by an increase in submarine tonnage elsewhere. This danger, however, is unfortunately unavoidable in the circumstances."

Mr. Alexander proceeded to show that the figures arrived at by the pact would be much lower than those proposed in Geneva in 1927. The total figure of cruisers, destroyers and submarines proposed was 1,000,000 tons, compared with 1,500,000 tons proposed in 1927. The total figure of cruisers, destroyers and submarines proposed

SOVIET GIVES BACK VOTE TO THOSE ROBBED

By PAUL WRIGHT

(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service)

MOSCOW, U.S.S.R., April 11.—Because certain over zealous local authorities of Moscow and elsewhere have violated the national election laws by disfranchising persons entitled to vote and have directed harsh measures against the disfranchised, the presidium of the central executive committee of the R.S.S.R. (Russia proper) has issued a decree commanding that a special committee shall revise the lists of disfranchised.

Local authorities are ordered carefully to examine complaints made to them by disfranchised persons, and when it is discovered that an individual has been disfranchised illegally, he must be reinstated immediately as a qualified voter. The process of verification is expected to require no more than two months.

Among others, rehabilitation must be granted those who have attained their majority, eighteen years, in 1924, and were disfranchised because they were supported by bourgeois families, providing they are now working usefully and living at their own expense.

MUST NOT DISFRANCHISE
House committees, collective farms and other organizations are informed that they are not entitled to disfranchise individuals.

Local authorities and Soviets are ordered to cancel the illegal regulations under which they have evicted disfranchised people from houses, even confiscating bread cards in some cases, refusing medicine or legal aid and expelling children from the schools. Local authorities are asked to present documents showing their compliance with the above measures.

Comptroller of Water Rights Returns From Visit to Irrigation Districts

BOARD HEARS APPLICATIONS

There is very evidently a scarcity of water in the majority of the districts. But the prospects for this year's crop look good, if the scarcity of water does not spoil it," said Major J. C. MacDonald, comptroller of water rights, on his return yesterday to his desk in the Parliament Buildings after a trip of inspection of the irrigation systems in the interior of the province.

Major MacDonald was accompanied by Mr. J. E. Lane, chairman of the Provincial Water Board, and Mr. Ernest Davis, a member of the board and chief engineer of the water rights department of the Department of Lands, on his trip.

The prospects of water supply for the irrigation season and requests of various irrigation districts for further loans from the conservation fund, were matters which officials heard while in the interior.

Centres visited on the trip included Vernon, Oyanas, Okanagan, Kelowna, Kamloops, Penticton, and Summerland, Naramata and Penticton.

At Penticton, the water board heard an application from the municipality of Penticton for authority to raise its irrigation rates. The board reserved its decision on the matter.

The board also heard representatives of a group of orchardists at Okanagan Centre who are desirous of forming an irrigation district under the Water Act. The terms of the proposed incorporation were discussed, and their petition will be presented to the Cabinet in the near future.

At Summerland, Comptroller MacDonald heard an application of the municipality of Summerland for the incorporation of a new irrigation district. This application was supported by the proposed incorporation was discussed, and their petition will be presented to the Cabinet in the near future.

GOOD QUANTITIES SOLD
Good quantities are reported sold for April shipment and several cargoes for May. A few tramp steamers have been chartered, including several for the opening of navigation at Montreal. A better business in berth space than for some time has been reported. So far a large proportion of the wheat is being shipped to Europe for British and Mediterranean ports.

"Stocks of wheat in elevators, and in transit by railways in Canada on March 31, totaled 196,500,000 bushels as compared with 176,750,000 on the same day a year ago. Last year the amount in farmers' hands to market exceeded 80,000,000 bushels. The total deliveries at country points to the end of March were 222,500,000 bushels, and a further 40,000,000 were to be used for seed and feed. The seed amounts deducted from a crop of 275,000,000, plus 5,500,000 in farmers' hands from the previous crop, leave less than 15,000,000 to be accounted for.

Ice conditions in connection with channels and harbours on Lake Superior and Huron do not suggest the opening of navigation on Lake Superior much before April 21, unless special efforts are made by ice breakers.

WALLIS CHARGES AGAIN IN COURT
W. N. Tompkins and Harold Gray Committed for Trial Together With Stanley E. Wallis

In the city police court yesterday two more persons were committed for trial by Magistrate George Jay on charges of conspiracy to defraud, in connection with the series of transactions carried out by Stanley E. Wallis in conditional sales agreements of the Consolidated Motors (Victoria), Limited. In one case W. N. Tompkins was joined with Wallis in the charge, and in the other case, Harold Gray, City Prosecutor C. L. Harrison acted for the Crown and Mr. Stuart Henderson appeared for the accused.

The evidence given was mainly a repetition of that given in recent cases in which other persons have been joined with Wallis in the same charge. On the agreement signed by Gray $1,500 was alleged to have been obtained from the Consolidated Motors, and on the agreement signed by Tompkins, $1,200 from Douglas Mackay & Company. In each case it is alleged that the agreements were not genuine agreements for sale and purchase.

At the Liberal convention this evening, it had been planned that Mr. O'Reilly should be nominated in West Hamilton. Upon receiving word of his death, the convention meeting was postponed.

"Look here," said the master of the house to the new maid, "how dare you tell your mistress what time I came in this morning, after I told you not to?"

"I didn't, sir," replied the maid. "She asked me what time you got in, and I told her I was too busy getting the breakfast ready to look at the clock."

MR. F. C. GREEN GIVEN PRAISE AT LUNCHEON

New Surveyor-General of Province Honored by Victoria Branch of Engineering Institute

MR. FRANK MORRIS IS ALSO LAUDED

A congratulatory luncheon was held at Spencer's dining-rooms yesterday by the Victoria Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada. The guest of honor was Mr. F. C. Green, M.E.I.C., R.P.E., D.L.S., B.C.L.S., who has recently been appointed surveyor-general of the Province of British Columbia. Mr. F. G. Aldous, A.M.E.I.C., B.C.L.S., presided.

In introducing Mr. Green, the chairman alluded to the general satisfaction caused by Mr. Green's appointment, especially the fact of his many years of field experience, which would enable him to appreciate the trouble of surveyors in the field. The chairman alluded to Mr. Green's tact, patience and general kindness, which would stand him in good stead in his new position.

Mr. Green expressed his appreciation of the honor accorded him and related some of his experiences in early days, drawing comparisons of the fact of his many years of field experience, which would enable him to appreciate the trouble of surveyors in the field. The chairman alluded to Mr. Green's tact, patience and general kindness, which would stand him in good stead in his new position.

Mr. Green referred to the difficulties of entering upon his new duties, but felt quite assured of success with the help of Mr. F. O. Morris, who was recently appointed assistant surveyor-general. The chairman spoke of Mr. Morris' appointment, and referred to him as a most devoted civil servant as a man who had earned his promotion.

Mr. Musgrave, B.C.L.S., secretary of the British Columbia Land Surveyors, expressed the general satisfaction of the land surveying fraternity concerning Mr. Green's appointment. Mr. Patrick Philip, Deputy Minister of Public Works, and Mr. J. P. Forde, of the Dominion Public Works department, both spoke in laudatory terms of the new surveyor-general.

The gathering terminated with the singing of "For He's a Good Fellow," and three cheers for Mr. Green.

Old Firm of J. Heaney Limited Now Under Son's Management

To take over the management of the J. Heaney, Limited, business, which was established by his father, the late Mr. Joseph Heaney in 1880, Mr. W. G. Heaney arrived in Victoria a few days ago from San Francisco, where he was connected for a number of years with the sales force of the California Conserving Company.

It is Mr. Heaney's intention to continue the business along the same lines as conducted by his father and latterly by his son, and as a result he expects to be able to increase its sphere of usefulness in the trucking field, and to add new equipment as the demand arises. Leaving for the South on Sunday next, for the purpose of winding up his affairs there, Mr. Heaney will assume active control of the business on his return to the city about the beginning of May.

Prime Minister of Canada Forecasts Measures of Proportional Representation

(Canadian Press) OTTAWA, Ont., April 11.—The Government has under consideration the introduction of a measure for proportional representation. This was stated today by Prime Minister Mackenzie King. Whether or not definite action is taken at the present session depends, to a certain extent, on the progress which is made with legislation. But the matter is before the Government, and a measure may be brought down after the Easter recess.

In stating that he was considering introducing a bill, the Premier asserted that proportional representation has been a plank in the platform of the Liberal party for many years.

Speaking in the House recently, he mentioned this and quoted from a resolution adopted at the 1919 convention, declaring "the acceptance of the principle of proportional representation."

"That remains to be brought about, and I hope it may be before long," the Premier added.

While the Prime Minister gave no intimation as to how far the Government is thinking of going, it is considered likely that if a measure is introduced it will probably apply only in the larger cities. It is not anticipated that there will be general application of the principle of proportional representation at the next general election. However, the matter has not yet reached a stage where it is possible to predict with any degree of definiteness just what will be done.

Perjury Charges Against Broker Given Dismissal

(Canadian Press) WINNIPEG, Man., April 11.—Charges of perjury, conspiracy, and obtaining money under a false affidavit, were dismissed against Mr. John Forlong today, in connection with the $2,000,000 will of his father-in-law, the late Alexander Macdonald. Forlong had pleaded not guilty and elected trial by jury. The two actions mark termination of threatened court action following warrants sworn out by Chief of Police Chris. H. Newton, while Mr. Forlong was in Battle Creek, Mich., and Mr. Irish was in Honolulu.

SIDNEY STATION MAY TEST SEEDS

Government Asked if Work May Be Carried Out at Experimental Farm

At yesterday's luncheon meeting of the board of directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, it was decided to bring the attention of the Minister of Agriculture at Ottawa to the present conditions prevailing with regard to the testing of imported seeds in British Columbia.

A letter was read from Messrs. McTavish Brothers, which pointed out that seeds had to be sent to the Dominion laboratory at Calgary for the official test to be made. The writers suggested that the Federal Government should be asked to test seeds at the Experimental Station at Sidney, thereby saving much valuable time. The directors of the chamber decided to send a copy of Messrs. McTavish's letter to the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa.

Mr. J. L. Beskwith brought up the matter of the taking over by the city of the old Clover Point race range as an addition to Beacon Hill Park. It was pointed out that at any moment the Dominion might sell the range to the private interests, and it was decided to appoint a committee to take the matter up with the City Council.

With regard to the request of the directors respecting an earlier delivery of mail in the business section of the city, a letter from the postmaster was read. This stated that everything possible was done to get mail distributed early, and the carriers generally got away from the office by 8 a.m.

MANAGER OF BANK DEFEATS HOLDUP

Bank of Commerce Chief at Vancouver Stages Gun Battle and Beats Off Two Bandits

VANCOUVER, April 11.—Held up by two armed men who entered the Canadian Bank of Commerce branch at Broadway and McKenzie Street at 10:15 o'clock, Mr. Sydney S. Petrie, manager of the branch, ducked behind the counter, reached for his gun, and opened fire.

The bandits, one of whom wore a light cap pulled down over his eyes, immediately dashed for the front door with Mr. Petrie in pursuit.

As the robbers ran for a blue-green sedan parked at the curb on Broadway, one of them turned and fired two shots at Mr. Petrie. Both missed, however, and the bank manager fired at the disappearing car.

"It all happened so quickly that I did not get a really good description of the men," Mr. Petrie said.

"I grabbed for my gun when one man advanced to the counter with a revolver in his hand. He fired one shot as I ducked and then turned towards the door," Mr. Petrie reported.

"His companion had stood near the door throughout, apparently on guard there."

The automobile, which had been left with its engine running, was in an attempt to pick up the trail of the bandits.

Mr. Petrie immediately reported to police the attempted holdup, and detectives were rushed to the scene in an attempt to pick up the trail of the bandits.

The holdup men were scared off before they had an opportunity to get near the cashier's wicket, police report.

COURT TO RULE ON MERGER BY SCHOOL AREAS

Plantagenet School District Case to Go to Supreme Court Judge, Government Recommends

EFFECTS FOUR ISLAND SCHOOLS

Problems affecting the Plantagenet School District, the third case of public school consolidation on Vancouver Island, agitated the district around Cobble Hill and Mill Bay for some time. It was charged that the school meetings at which resolutions supporting consolidation were adopted had not fully complied with correct procedure, and this attitude was particularly the case in the viewpoint of certain Mill Bay ratepayers, who carried on a lively press correspondence on the subject.

In order to clarify the work of the Plantagenet School District, the Government in its capacity as the Council of Public Instruction, to whose members an appeal was lodged by certain ratepayers, has decided to recommend to the Administrator.

"That the question as to whether the Cobble Hill, Bench, Mill Bay and Sylvania School Districts were properly united into the Plantagenet School District be referred to a Judge of the Supreme Court for consideration."

In view of the extension of the principle of consolidation of rural schools spreading in the province, a decision on this Southern Vancouver Island case will be watched with interest.

CONSERVATIVES READY TO FIGHT

Followers of Mr. Baldwin Quickly Get Into Stride for Contest in West Fulham

(Canadian Press) LONDON, April 11.—The Conservative party was not let the grass grow under its feet following yesterday's announcement of the resignation of Dr. J. E. Sprott, Labor member for West Fulham. The Conservatives have already nominated their candidate, for he was not hard to find.

The candidate is Sir Cyril Cobb, Conservative member for the borough from 1918 to 1929, when he was unexpectedly defeated by Dr. Sprott after a fight which ended with 16,190 votes polled for Sprott, 13,379 for Sir Cyril and 5,290 for the Liberal candidate, O. A. Gade.

A great deal, it is felt, may depend on the result of the by-election, for it will constitute an important test of the popular opinion of the Government.

The Conservatives have already indicated approval of their policies, while the Conservatives would find their hands greatly strengthened by winning back the seat from the enemy.

It is believed the Liberals will not run a candidate.

PATERSON WILL BE HELD VALID

Supreme Court Decides That Domicile of Testator Was in British Columbia

That the late Campbell Paterson, for some years resident at Gordon Head, but who died in the Isle of Jersey, was legally domiciled in British Columbia at the time of his death; that by his will he thereby validly disposed of all his property, and that his estate should be administered according to the laws of British Columbia, was the judgment given yesterday in Supreme Court by Mr. Justice Murphy.

Mr. Paterson's will bequeathed two-thirds of his estate to his widow and divided the residue among a brother, two sisters and two children of a deceased sister. Sons and daughters to whom no bequest was made in the will filed a caveat, and raised the question as to whether the legal domicile of Mr. Paterson at the time of his death was in British Columbia, or in Scotland, his original domicile. This question was raised because, if the legal domicile was in Scotland, the estate would have to be administered under the law of that country, and in that case the testator could not dispose of more than two-thirds of his personal property, by will, outside of his immediate family.

Under these circumstances, Mr. Lindley Crease, K.C., the executor of the estate under the will, applied to the court for a declaration as to whether the legal domicile of the testator was in this province or in Scotland, the application taking the form of an action in which the executor appeared as plaintiff. The judgment was reserved yesterday.

decision of the court, as already stated, is that the legal domicile is in British Columbia.

The judgment further orders that the sons and daughters who were not beneficiaries by the will shall be paid the lump sum of $5,268.66 in full settlement of all claims and demands for costs, expenses, or otherwise, to be divided between them, and that the said sum be charged against the shares of the beneficiaries. Judgment was reserved yesterday in County Court by Judge Lampman, at conclusion of evidence and argument in the suit of P. de T. ## THE PROBLEM OF INDIA

Sir Francis Younghusband, who knows India and its people, is not impressed by the Ghandi revolution of non-co-operation. He regrets that among both Americans and Canadians an impression should prevail that M. Ghandi "is India" and that what he wants must be good because "Ghandi is a saint." What many people do not understand is that the great Ruling Princes of India, the Moslems, the Liberal leaders and the Merchants of India have no desire for immediate separation from the British connection. Sir Francis points out that somewhat general ignorance prevails of the fact that education and agriculture have already been handed over to the Indians, "that Indians sit on the Councils of the Governors of Provinces, of the Viceroy, and of the Secretary of State for India, and occupy the highest posts in the judiciary. Moreover, India has fiscal autonomy and can and does impose her own tariffs. India has a seat in the League of Nations on an equality with France, Germany or any other member."

Sir Francis asks for a more informed public opinion on Indian affairs. If this obtains he feels assured that M. Ghandi will not occupy such a prominent place in the picture as he does at present. India is a world problem, in some respects, because its course is being shaped so that it may take its place in the hegemony of nations. If M. Ghandi is allowed to have his way India would lapse into chaos and the whole world would suffer. He is inclining Indians to violate the law at a moment when Great Britain is considering how to give Indians a fuller share in making laws for themselves. A better informed public opinion, says Sir Francis Younghusband, "would probably prefer to support those not less patriotic Indians who have been tailing for the welfare of India in the Legislative Assembly and Councils, and who are now prepared to work with the British Government in making the Government of India more and more Indian till Indians become as fully responsible for the destinies of India as Canadians are for Canada. And these are the Indians who now should be brought to the front while Ghandi's inaccuracies are given sharp correction. India is poor. But the world must not be led to believe that it has grown poorer under British rule—nor that it will grow richer under Ghandi's."

The new planet beyond Neptune, discovered from Lowell Observatory, Flagstaff, Arizona, is described by Harvard astronomers as "close to Delta Geminorum, within seven minutes' time from Geminorum," or technically as Right Ascension seven hours and fifteen minutes, and Declination North 22.5 degrees. Because of its tremendous distance from the sun it receives the light of the sun with a brilliancy at most hardly exceeding that of moonlight. The planet is believed to take 330 years to go round the sun, from which it is distant 4,185,000,000 miles. It will be several months before anything like an accurate measurement of the dimensions of the planet will be possible.

Under the system of death duties that prevails in Great Britain, when a man of big estate or a successful captain of industry dies, the newspapers often record the fact as "Another windfall for the Chancellor of the Exchequer." One critic of death duties says this should read: "Another misfortune has befallen the country and more people are thrown out of work." Death duties, or succession duties as they are more euphonically called in this province, imply destruction of capital and therefore they foster unemployment. We have an unemployment problem in British Columbia. Remove succession duties and we will go a long way towards its solution.

TO A SHETLAND JERSEY

From the grey old isles you came, in your colors all
Like the sunsets over Petlar when the August sun
Gone down.
But now you've gotten old, and your color faded cold,
And the sun's sunk in the Blue Mull, and Petlar hills
Are brown.

Through the twilight mists and rain, we are going
Once again,
By the Pentland, by the Orkneys, to the skerries and
The kyles,
Where the soft white drift is falling we can hear
The elders calling.
Old Shetland! they're calling us—we're going to the Isles.

Imitation causes us to leave natural ways to enter artificial ones; it, therefore, makes slaves—Professor Vinet.

Obstinacy and vehemence in opinion are the surest proofs of stupidity.—Dr. Barton.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

Then really mean your brother man.
More easily sister woman.
Though they may seem a kinsman's wrong,
To step aside is human.

Outsiders cannot avoid being a little sorry for the Province of Ontario in this matter of divorce courts. Whatever happens it looks as if the province will have to submit to the dictation of some kind of block of opinion from persons of the Dominion of Canada outside of the provincial territory.

As we have said, and as others probably had said before we said it, a mixture of religion and politics is even a more dangerous explosive than the most modern chemical compound. The extract printed above is from Toronto Saturday Night dealing with the divorce debate in the Canadian House of Commons. But while the compound is dangerous, and an explosion may follow which will shatter the political fabric of its foundations, a controversy in which politics and religion are mixed delights the hearts and fires the imaginations of the good people of Ontario.

A rather curious feature of the divorce controversy is that whatever Parliament may say or do, the ill-assorted couples of Ontario cannot be prevented from securing divorces. Parliament may declare that Ontario shall not have divorce courts, but Parliament itself has the power to cut the bonds of matrimony and get a bill of divorce through. Parliament should prove too slow and expensive a procedure, irregular divorces may be procured in other provinces and in other countries.

The issue is therefore an issue between fundamentalists. The fundamentalists of Ontario have joined against the establishment of divorce courts. In Quebec marriage is more than a legal contract; it is a sacrament of the church and cannot be dissolved merely by civil processes. In Ontario the ceremony of marriage must be performed by the clergy, not necessarily in a church, but in only one denomination of the churches is it a sacrament as well as a legal contract. And while we may believe that the system which prevails in Quebec is the best from both a religious and a secular point of view because it is a strong bulwark against a licence which is becoming too prevalent in other countries and is a menace to the welfare, if not actually the existence, of the constitution of society, we cannot understand the arguments of the fundamentalists of Ontario that divorce courts should not be established because the very existence of divorce courts would have a degrading and demoralizing effect upon society.

The contention of course is that if divorce courts were established in Ontario and divorces could be obtained with more facility and at lower cost, there would be multiplication of divorces. In opposition to this contention is the argument that if divorces must be countenanced as an evil but necessary, there is no reason why divorce should be the privilege of the few who can afford it and denied to those who cannot bear the expense of it. Besides, divorce as granted by the High Court of Parliament is said to have become a disgrace, if not actually a scandal. It is alleged that applications for divorce have become so numerous that many of them have been rushed through the house without proper legal sifting of the evidence.

There are members of Parliament who will not listen to divorce petitions at all because they have religious and conscientious scruples against divorce upon any grounds whatever. The result is that the burden has become too heavy for the members who have no scruples, and they are asking to be relieved of their disagreeable task by the establishment of Ontario divorce courts. Then there are other voters connected with divorce who feel that the court of Parliament cannot deal with, but which a legal tribunal would have the power to adjust. There are questions of alimony and the care of children. While Parliament may issue divorce decrees, it cannot make orders for the maintenance of dependents.

If there were an authority in the other provinces of Canada endowed with disciplinary powers applied in Quebec with salutary effect, the issue of divorce could never have been raised in Parliament or in the press. If those who entered into matrimonial obligations realized that they were subscribing their names to contracts which were terminable only by death, possibly they might strike a little harder to adjust their necks to the yoke, which must gall slightly even under the most favorable circumstances. But we are living in modern times under modern conditions. We have divorce courts in all our Western Provinces, and the social conditions in those provinces compare favorably with the social conditions in Ontario, although the fundamentalists of Ontario are not so ready to accept the fact that the situation is that Quebec will be charged with intolerance, will be charged with mixing religion with politics and with creating an issue.

EXPECT THOUSAND AT CONFERENCE

Canadian Conference on Social Work to Be Held in Toronto This Month

The second all-Canadian conference on social work will be convened in Toronto from April 28 to May 1, and it is expected that at least 1,000 delegates will attend. Such topics as child and family welfare, immigration, community organization, delinquency courts, community recreation and the economic problems of the future will come under discussion. While the conference is, in the first instance, being held for social workers, it will serve to call attention, not only to the many phases of life in Canada, especially the "other half life," but also to the fact that this sort of endeavor is reaching large proportions in this country and in budgets of private and public agencies, experts during this year nearly $100,000,000.

Those administering this huge fund should be well informed on economic as well as social grounds, and the public should also have an intelligent idea of what is being done and should have confidence in the administering officials.

In a recent speech at Ottawa, Miss Charlotte Whitton, secretary of the Canadian Council on Child Welfare, drew attention to this when she told her audience that there was a serious lack of interest on the part of the public in the effective application of funds which charitable Canada seemed ready to pour out in response to almost any tale of woe or need. Ready response has been made to all sorts of drives without adequate inquiry as to whether conditions were actually improving, child neglect, increasing or diminishing, or anti-caring or modern methods of care and administration being followed.

She commented in this criticism those cities where the federated budget has taken as part of its work the education of both the public and institutions and the public. Miss Whitton said:

"People will give you $100 with their blessing to care for children in an institution, but do not like to give you $10 to support an agency whose sole work is service in the building up of families and keeping children out of institutions. Yet I believe the whole value of public and private philanthropy lies in the extent to which it is effective in helping people to help themselves, not in solving their problems for them or relieving them of them altogether."

It becomes more and more necessary that there be less harm and not good be the ultimate result, since the demands on Government and private agencies for social work are increasing so tremendously.

Miss Whitton is expected to visit Victoria in June, when it is hoped there may be full discussion of these problems with all who are interested in them, through the Victoria Social Service League.

Sir R. Lake Is Chosen Head of B.C. Red Cross

VANCOUVER, April 11.—Sir Richard Lake, K.C.M.G., was elected president of the Red Cross Society for British Columbia at the annual meeting of the provincial council here today. The other new officers are: Vice-presidents, Mrs. J. E. Fitzwater, Kamloops; Mrs. W. E. Newcombe, North Vancouver; Mrs. M. Fleming, Victoria; honorary secretary-treasurer, F. Landsberg, Victoria.

The meeting confirmed the proceedings of the special general meeting of February 28, which laid down the policy for the coming year of carrying on the Junior Red Cross work, of taking over from Alberta the Red Cross outpost at Pouce Coupe, and of opening a new outpost nursing station at Port St. John.

There was a discussion of finances and it was decided that more intensive efforts at raising funds in British Columbia for Red Cross work must be made during the coming year.

Premier Flats Denies Date of Election Fixed

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, April 11.—No decision has yet been arrived at in respect to the date of the next general election, Prime Minister Mackenzie King informed the Canadian Press this morning.

The Prime Minister gave unqualified denial to a report that he had intended to Quebec Liberal members of Parliament at a caucus yesterday that he proposed to bring down the budget and later to go to the country with the Government's fiscal proposals as an issue. He had not even attended the caucus, he referred to. The only caucuses which he had been present at this session were those attended by Liberal members from all over Canada.

Salmon Fishery Treaty Expected From U.S. Soon

WASHINGTON, April 11.—In the immediate future the Canadian Government will have in its hands a draft of a proposed treaty with the United States for the prevention of smuggling, as the result of correspondence with Ottawa the draft is in process of preparation here, and should go forward to Canada some time next week.

Another matter which it is understood will shortly be presented to Ottawa for approval is the revision of the convention for preservation of the salmon fisheries in the Fraser River and water bordering British Columbia and the State of Washington.

BREAD DELIVERIES

Sir—Permit me a word in connection of what your correspondent, Mr. C. Beason, states with regard to the system of bread delivery in the British Isles.

In Scotland, from which much material comes to your paper, the bread delivery van, as an institution, has been established at least for over half a century in every town, large or small. Even dwellers in rural districts are visited by the "baker," as the delivery driver is commonly named. Bread purchased in bakery or grocery stores was always wrapped in a thin paper resembling tissue, before I left Caledonia, and it is to be presumed the custom is maintained.

Those administering the wages paid to bakers in the Old Land (I am speaking of Scotland) the current rate is 13.16 (approximately $18) per week for forty-two hours. This is the rate, and as the bakers and confectioners there are strongly organized, it follows that few, if any, establishments pay a lower rate.

My correspondent for this information is a relative who held an executive post in a large bakery and confectionery establishment in a Scottish city, and who arrived but recently in Victoria.

How "Master Baker" could have been led to make such a ridiculous assertion with regard to delivery vans, is beyond comprehension. He might, at least qualified his statement by saying that exception is sometimes made in the case of small bakeries, and that the bread delivered by boys with wheelbarrows.

If "Master Baker" were in the British Isles today he would doubtless be astonished to behold trim, modern motor vehicles bearing the names of bakery firms and being used to deliver bread from door to door.

Great Britain is not so far behind the times, nor are her people effete, as many people on this continent—those mainly who have never crossed the Atlantic—persist in asserting.

"SAVE THE CHILDREN" SUNDAY

Sir—May I say a few words on behalf of our efforts on May 4 to respond, in some measure, to the call of the suffering children of the world. I am told that all Sunday schools in British Columbia are asked to take part in this work, and the children are given the "golden rule"—a card measured in inches, each representing life—which they are asked to fill. Mr. Landsberg told me yesterday that if he only had six more children, but the same he felt rather helpless.

Now surely, among our Christian community, there are some who would like to help, and to help in reaching Sunday schools, or private individuals—for we must not leave all this to the children—we must take them up, we must back up the sacrificing labors of those in Vancouver and elsewhere, who are doing their best to win support for this work. Above all, we must, for the sake of the Christ, who loves the children and loves us all, be ready to help Him.

We are now affiliated with the society in England, and who can count the children they want to reach, feed, shelter, educate and bring into the Kingdom of Christ. Come and help us, please. Mr. Landsberg will welcome anyone who will give a little time, some sympathy and encouragement to this effort. You can find his telephone and address 737 Fort Street.

Ask your friends for contributions. Help and pray and work—your labor is not in vain in the Lord."

ANNOUNCE AWARD OF SCHOLARSHIPS

Offered by University of Washington Music Department to Young Pianists

An award of scholarships to young pianists throughout the country has recently been announced by the University of Washington music department, Seattle, which entitles the winners to instruction under the world-renowned pianist and teacher, Sigismund Stojowski, pupil and exponent of the great Paderewski. Scholarships are available for the Summer term from July 14 to August 15, when the annual Summer colony of pianists will assemble under the direction of Mr. Stojowski, on the beautiful estate of the Moran School, Bainbridge Island, near Seattle. The award of scholarships is made possible through the efforts of the Association of Stojowski Students, formed for this purpose. Classes and private lessons for advanced and junior students are offered in the Summer course.

Eligibility rules for scholarship applicants are as follows: (a) Applicants must be under thirty years of age; (b) Scholarships are not available to former Stojowski students; (c) Scholarship students must be prepared to remain throughout the entire term of the course, to derive full benefit therefrom. In our home we have used NERVILINE for sourness, colds, chills and cramps. NERVILINE gives wonderful relief. I employ NERVILINE for chills, colds and pain in the stomach. (Canadian Press Cable via Reuters)

CANBERRA, Australia, April 11.—Prime Minister J. H. The Government, however, would do all possible to alleviate the position of the manufacturers in regard to goods now on the seas on their way to Australia, the Premier added.

Lover of Nature Aided Greatly to Plant Knowledge

Late Mr. J. R. Anderson Was Authority on Flora of British Columbia and Also Shared Interests in Many Other Forms of Natural Science During Long Lifetime

Had Written Extensively About Trees and Shrubs

A civilization makes its inroads on nature, and the primeval forests and wild plant life recede before the axeman and the questing tourist, any document relating to the natural history of British Columbia in its primeval state will gain in interest. The late Mr. J. R. Anderson's work on "Trees and Shrubs, Food, Medicinal and Poisonous Plants of British Columbia," belongs to this group. Published five years ago by the Department of Education, and already held in high esteem by the librarians, botanists and others who have had occasion to need the assistance of such a reference, a fresh access of interest has been aroused in the book by the author's passing. One finds, on dipping into its pages again, the justness of the tribute paid to the veteran naturalist by his old friend, Mr. Charles Pemberton, at the meeting of the Authors' Club on the day of Mr. Anderson's death. For the style and material reflect a cultured and observant mind, an attitude toward nature which is "a great credit to the whole educational system and training of his time."

It is certainly as a Nature lover and student of natural history that the late Mr. Anderson is best remembered by those who belonged to the less intimate group who remember him also for his lovable and chivalrous qualities as a man. He was one of the first and most loyal members of the Natural History Society of Victoria, and among his closest friends were men who were associated with him in this organization: Mr. C. C. Pemberton, Mr. A. R. Sherwood, Mr. A. S. Barton, Mr. W. Newcombe, Major Harold Nation, and Rev. Robert Connell. His interest in all that pertained to British Columbia sprang primarily from this deep-rooted affection for Nature and its beautiful expression in the province where he was born and spent his life.

INTEREST BEGAN EARLY
Born at Nisqually in 1841, and the almost constant companion of his father, Mr. Alexander C. Anderson, who was also something of a botanist, Mr. Anderson early acquired a taste for botany. His office many years later with the Department of Agriculture, which he inaugurated, placed him in a position to push his interest into practical channels, and it is also partly responsible for the interest which the Department of Education took in the publication of his manual on trees and shrubs. The data which he presented there, with in respect to poisonous plants and wild plants formerly used for food purposes by the natives of British Columbia. Copiously illustrated, the work is both popular and scientific.

ACTIVE COLLECTOR
All his life Mr. Anderson collected and pressed plants. Unfortunately the province overlooked the value of this work, and one of his best collections, after being offered to British Columbia, was refused, and sold to the Washington State University at Pullman some years ago. He was an assiduous collector, however, and in course of time amassed other things of historic and natural history value. The British Columbia Archives and the Provincial Library, where he was an almost daily visitor, are in possession of some of these photographs, maps, old pamphlets and books, and a few curious relics which he picked up in the course of his travels. Among the quaint relics which he gave the archives, is an eagle's claw, the bones of which have been removed so that it forms a pouch containing the first set of chessmen used in British Columbia. The little pieces were carved by his father. This relic was loaned to the Gonzales Chapter collection of antiques shown during the past week at McCloy's rooms, and attracted quite an amount of curiosity. Another historic relic which he presented to the archives is a firebag of the kind used by the pioneers to hold their flint and punk.

A bundle of old photographs of early ships, naval men, and pioneers was another of his gifts to the collection in the Parliament Buildings. He was regarded as an authority on pioneer history in the province, and at the dinner given a little more than a year ago in commemoration of Victoria's birthday, was called on to give some reminiscences of Governor Blanshard, the first Governor of the Crown Colony of Vancouver Island. Although he was then in his eighty-eighth year he spoke clearly and gave a very graphic picture of Blanshard and the time.

PIONEER IN FREE LIFE
Birds, insects, the rock and soil of the province, also claimed much of his interest. But plant life, trees, shrubs and flowers, were his chief hobby. To such an extent had he cultivated this interest that he was invariably sought out to entertain and act as guide to distinguished visiting botanists. He made one of the earliest reports ever submitted to the Dominion Government on the tree life of British Columbia, and was a frequent contributor to the press on matters pertaining to the subject. Much that he had to tell found its way into Government pamphlets, various kinds, and a professor of agronomy lecturing here some years ago mentioned Mr. Anderson as one of the two men who gave authoritative information concerning soil conditions all over the province long before such data was in demand. This lecturer was astounded to learn that Mr. Anderson was still alive.

With this power of keen, energetic and independent observation, it was natural that he should enjoy excursions into the country and until the last continued his walks. He always brought back some little bit of interesting information and those who accompanied him found him a good companion. Friends were astonished at the amount of information which he absorbed during his visit a few years ago to New Zealand. His versatile knowledge of natural history in British Columbia gave him a good field for comparison, and botany, history, botany, insects and insects and trees in the sister Dominion were studied from a relative as well as actual standpoint.

Mr. Anderson was the only life member of the Natural History Society, the honor being conferred on him just before he went to New Zealand. He was a trustee of the organization at the time of his death.

The brief tribute contained in the forward to his "Trees and Shrubs of British Columbia" summarizes the side of Mr. Anderson's life which is best known.

"The subject-matter of the manual was prepared by James R. Anderson, one of the leaders among the pioneer botanists of British Columbia, a man for whom the love of trees and flowers has been a lifelong, ruling passion. For years Mr. Anderson enjoyed the intimate friendship of such great Canadian botanists as the late Dr. James Fletcher, then Dominion Botanist and Entomologist, to whose memory he has so fittingly dedicated this little work; the late Professor John Macoun, who spent the later years of his life in this province, and who knew the Dominion of Canada and its varied flora and forest lands as few men, and the late Dr. Charles Mearns, who has so the best-known authorities on the flora of British Columbia. It is the hope that the mantle of such great naturalists may fall upon others of our native sons and daughters and that many boys and girls who now frequent our schools may come to know and to appreciate the more our great heritage of natural wealth and beauty for having read this book." One had to know him more intimately to appreciate the special qualities which a close friend summed up in the phrase, "a cultured and chivalrous gentleman of the old school." Some years ago he was knocked down by a car, but he refused to prosecute. The fair sex might be out of place behind the wheel, but his early training had prejudiced him in favor of treating them with gallantry.

CHAMBER HEARS REPORT ON BREAD

Directors Will Take No Action to Put Prices in Stabilized Condition

In adopting the report of the special committee, formed to inquire into bread prices, the directors of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday decided that it would be unwise to interfere with a legitimate competitive business.

The report read as follows: "We, the committee appointed to look into this matter, beg to state that this question necessarily involves the interference on our part with private businesses. However, being requested by your board to investigate, the members of the committee beg to state that we found the bakers of Victoria both willing and anxious to place the facts before the public.

"The price of bread, it was ascertained, varied somewhat, depending upon the quality and service going into the manufacture and delivery of the loaves. The delivery charges being very heavy, it is felt that the public generally do not fully realize the relation these bear to the question at issue. Many ingredients other than flour are used in the making of a quality loaf of bread, these including malt, sugar, salt, shortening, yeast and milk.

"No monopoly exists, and the housewife can purchase a sixteen-ounce loaf at from 7 cents to 10 cents. The delivered price is 10 cents, but if the housewife so desires she can bake her own bread.

"We find today that the price of $5.60 per barrel for good bread flour, as published in one or more of our local papers, to be incorrect. Costs to the bakers during the past three months have ranged from $7.20 to $8.65 per barrel; invoices to this effect exhibited.

"The cost of flour is, in any case, not relative to the price of bread to

DON'T IGNORE WARNING SIGNALS

Headaches, Listlessness, Bad Breath, Backaches, Indigestion—Stop Them with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

This is a serious matter. You must conquer constipation! Stop it at once before its poisons get in their deadly work.

Nearly 90% of all sickness has its origin in irregular elimination. If you neglect the symptoms—constant fatigue, bad breath, headaches and coated tongue—you may be laying yourself open to permanent ill-health.

There's a natural, easy way to free yourself from this terrible scourge, once and forever. By eating regularly a delicious cereal—Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Physicians recommend ALL-BRAN because its action is different from pills and drugs. Ordinary cathartics give only temporary relief, and are often habit-forming.

ALL-BRAN acts naturally, gently. Its roughage sweeps the system clean of poisonous wastes and impurities.

And ALL-BRAN is a great aid to health in other ways. It contains abundant iron which enriches the blood, builds strength and the glowing color of health. With milk or cream—or in fruit juices—it brings important vitamins to the diet.

You'll find the flavor of ALL-BRAN delightful. A crisp, ready-to-eat cereal, with a nut-like flavor.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to keep you free from both temporary and recurring constipation if you eat it according to directions on every package.

Ignoring constipation is like playing with dynamite. Start serving Kellogg's ALL-BRAN now. Sold by all grocers in the red-and-green package. It is served in restaurants, hotels and dining-cars. Ask for it by name.

any material extent, as the manufacturing and servicing costs are the greater part of the cost of production.

"We find today that the prices in Duncan for the sixteen-ounce loaf of bread ranges from 7½ cents to 10 cents per loaf. We understand, however, that during two weeks' ends recently, due to a purely local competitive condition, bread was sold at 5 cents per loaf, cash and carry.

"The recommendation of this committee to the directors is that the Victoria Chamber of Commerce take no action in interfering with a legitimate competitive business. As there are, as stated, some fifty bakers in Victoria and district, the very competitive nature of the baking business is an assurance that the price of this very necessary and valuable commodity cannot very well be unduly enhanced."

Varied Activities of Women

Season's Gloves and Hats

High Cost of Long Gloves Adds to Expense of Summer Wardrobe—Hats Have Wider Brims and More Trimming.

A consequence of long evening skirts is the long evening glove, and long gloves will also be worn in the summer with sleeveless and short-sleeved dresses, says an article in The Times (London). It is a fashion which will add to cost of accessories.

The long evening gloves are mostly in soft pale shades of suede and kid; the suede, which is the more becoming, is also the dearer. Some come up to the elbow and others yet higher up the arm. Long skirts need a balance to their frills or ankle drapery, and gloves have always been worn with long dresses. America was the first to give heavy orders for long gloves, and the demand is now growing everywhere. Many dresses for the coming season are of flowered chiffon, or printed silk, without sleeves or with short sleeves, and those that are sleeveless will need, despite their little capes or shoulder drapery, elbow-length gloves to give them a finish. For these, besides the evening shades, there are tones of mushroom, pale beige and other faint pastel colors.

GLOVE INDUSTRY

The high price of long gloves is due to the cost of skins and labor. At one time Grenoble was almost entirely devoted to glove-making, but when gloves ceased to be worn some years ago it took to making artificial silk, so that there are not many glove-makers there now. English glove-makers, however, are making many excellent gloves, such as silk-lined mocha and an-telope, which were formerly imported. The demand for any particular kind of glove has to be foreseen a long time ahead—perhaps as much as nine months—if the pick of the skins is to be got. A curious thing about glove buying is that a woman with small hands does not get such good gloves as the woman with larger hands, whose gloves are made of the best plump skins. The smaller skins are not so good, and small gloves split more often than larger ones.

NEW LINES IN HATS

Hats also are changing in consequence of the changed line and length of dresses. For the summer there are hats with very large brims of crinoline lace, horsehair lace, and other transparent straw materials, tulle and the new Panama lacquer which is a shiny straw—tulle and taffeta. The latter being used for neat straw hats with brims and there are other straws, such as Java and hemp, which are dyed in many colors. Crowns are very shallow, particularly on wide-brimmed afternoon hats, and there is far more trimming than there has been for a long time. Phille, ribbon and flowers help to give that balance which is required on a hat which completes a very much trimmed dress.

SMART LINEN HATS

There are still hats that are well off the face and show the brow, but even these are wider at the sides. At one dress show a little hat of pastel blue felt, was almost boat-shaped and decorated with pink and blue pastel ostrich feathers brought in the fashion of the nineties across the crown. There are two hats to go with tweed morning dresses, and there are also soft hats of stitched crepe de Chine, linen and tussore. Many linen hats will be worn in the summer—draped turbans of spotted linen with scarves for town, and wide-brimmed stitched hats for the country.

Big and Little Sister Outfits Are Smart

ON the left is a quaint frock of pale blue and rose print on a white ground, which will be smart for the ten-year-old lady this summer. It has the flared skirt and flared epaulettes of the more sophisticated clothes. The frock piped in rose, the same color appearing in the velvet ribbon on the Leghorn hat. On the right is a big and little sister ensemble for early spring wear. The coats are of orchid lace tweed made on plain tailored lines, the hat of baku with orchid ribbon applied.

The after-dinner speaker had talked for fifteen minutes. "After partaking of such an excellent meal," he continued, "I feel that if I had eaten more, I would have been unable to talk."

From the far end of the table came an order to a waiter: "Bring him a sandwich."

"Once I loved a girl, and she made a fool of me."

"What lasting impression some girls make."

Flip Seeks His Master

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

It is the law that in some way, for all mistakes we have to pay. —Flip the Terrier.

Walking on three legs, whimpering, whining, and now and then yelping a little, Flip the Terrier headed up the Lone Little Path through the Green Forest on his way home. He had hardly started when Bowser the Hound joined him. Bowser gave one look, opened his mouth to say something, and then closed it without speaking. He had been going to say, "Didn't I warn you to leave that fellow alone?" But he didn't say it. Years before he had himself had just such an experience with Prickly Porky the Porcupine. He knew just how poor little Flip was feeling. He knew how Flip was going to feel when those quills were pulled out of his face and mouth and foot.

So Bowser had only sympathy for Flip. He trotted along by his side and did his best to let Flip know how sorry he felt. So at last they reached Farmer Brown's barnyard. Then Bowser became active. He ran this way and that way, looking for his master, Farmer Brown's Boy. He found him out in the courtyard, back of the barn. He began to bark and run a few steps, as much as to say, "Come, follow me." Farmer Brown's Boy seemed to understand. "Well, Bowser," said he, "what is it this time? Have you found something you want me to see?" He started to follow Bowser around the barn.

Such a pathetic little dog as Flip was, sitting on the doorstep of the house, with one little paw held up and his face on one side filled with the little pears like Prickly Porky the Porcupine. Farmer Brown's Boy was filled with pity. He knew just what poor little Flip was suffering and would have to suffer. You see, he had pulled quills out before.

He started to follow Bowser around the barn.

perling softly. He just couldn't help it. No, sir, he couldn't help it. He just had to whimper.

"Let me see," said Farmer Brown's Boy. "Since the last time I had to pull any quills out of a dog I have heard of a new treatment. Some- body has told me that if I put wood ashes around the quills and let them remain on a little while, the quills will become softened and will pull out much more easily. Anyway, it is worth trying."

So Farmer Brown's Boy went into the house and got some wood ashes from the fireplace. Then he wet Flip's face where the quills were and the foot in which the quill was sticking. Then he put on the wood ashes. He also applied some of the ashes in Flip's mouth, where the quills were. He then held Flip quietly for some time, all the time talking to him. Finally he took Flip out to the barn. There he got some pinners and got Farmer Brown to help him. While Farmer Brown's Boy held Flip, Farmer Brown began pulling out the quills. Poor Flip yelped and struggled as each one was pulled out. But badly as the pulling of those quills hurt, it would have hurt more but for those ashes, for Farmer Brown's Boy saw right away that those quills had softened and came out much more easily than did the ones he had pulled out of Bowser once.

When the last quill was out, Farmer Brown's Boy gently bathed the sore place. He washed away all the ashes and then he put on a healing salve. Then he put Flip down. A more shamefaced dog you never saw than Flip.

The Romantic Prince

By RAFAEL SABATINI

(Copyright, 1929, by North American Newspaper Alliance and Metropolitan Newspaper Service.)

If Johanna's time of waiting was an agony, the first sight of him when at last he brought him to her was even worse. He was scarcely recognizable for the man he was a week ago. The healthy fullness of his cheeks was gone; the great bony structures of his face stood gauntly forth from the stretched yellow skin, and his eyes, which seemed to have receded in their sockets, burned feverishly. He no longer walked with that slight, swaggering roll and the forward thrust of his chin, but moved slowly and stiffly, bending forward like an old man.

The first sight of him wrought in her such an uprush of pity and womanly tenderness that she ran to meet him, to enfold him in her arms. But he almost struck her in her embrace, whereupon her arms were instantly relaxed and melted from him. She fell back in dismay.

"You . . . you hurt me!" he gasped, and added the explanation: "I have been racked until I am one living ache." He looked at her fearfully with those burning eyes about which the shadows were so heavy. He mumbled explanations to her. "I stood as much as flesh and bone could bear. Then when I could endure no more, when I was stark mad with pain . . . I threw away my life to buy a moment's ease. I said what they wanted me to say. I would have said anything, anything that was required of me. I confessed that I had written that letter to that man."

She was kneeling beside him, an arm very gently set upon his shoulders.

"A week ago," he babbled on in his weak plaintive voice, "we didn't have a single care to trouble the sweetness of our lives. Tomorrow . . ."

He broke off, shuddering violently again. "Why did you come, Johanna? You should not have come. I was man enough until I saw you. Your coming has . . . has made a child of me."

"How could I not come?" She spoke in tones calculated to soothe his unreason. "How could I refrain from attempting to move that dreadful man? I wanted him that God's vengeance will overtake him. But such as he is dead of soul. He only mocked my warnings."

"Yet he allowed you to see me. That at least was considerate in him."

"Oh, yes, he is considerate; considerate to himself," she answered with incoherent bitterness, "thinking to further his evil hopes."

"Foggy?" He stared at her. "What hopes?"

"That . . . that is no matter. But he was not to be put off. What hopes had he? Tell me. You must tell me."

She lowered her voice until it was hardly more than a whisper, so that he had to strain to catch her words. He offered her a sob of pity for him.

"Ah, but the price, my dear!"

Danvelt gasped. He could hardly believe his ears. Hope was suddenly reborn in him. It throbbed through his being, shortening his breath, deepening if possible the pallor of his cheeks. "What . . . what do you mean?" His voice quavered. "Do you mean that he offered to sell you my life? Why, then, in that case . . ."

At once she perceived the mischief of hope she had wrought but to add to his mental torment. A sob convulsed her, a sob of pity for him.

"Ah, but the price, my dear!"

She had a last glimpse of his white, piteous face before he vanished and the doors closed again. Then she sank into the chair which he had just vacated. Her lips were

she cried, assuming that from her very tone he must guess the truth. But his wits, never penetrating, were now as dull as lead. "Price?" he echoed. "What price could be too high to pay for life?" Excitement grew in him. "Does that covetous captain want all our wits? Then yield to him. Yield all that I may live."

She interrupted him, her hands now clutching the arms of his chair. "Can you dream I should have hesitated had it been but that? Oh, don't you understand? The price he proposed to me was to be paid by me. By me."

He stared at her, and slow understanding pierced those heavy wits of his. The light of hope perished in his eyes, like a candle that is blown out. He covered his face with his emaciated hands.

"The dog!" she heard him mutter. There was a silence, at the end of which she spoke softly and gently. "You see, my dear, you could never have forgiven it, or . . . done otherwise than loathe that for your life."

Presently he asked a question: "And you? What . . . what did you answer me when I was?"

"As you would have me answer," slowly he nodded. "You refused."

He continued to sit there staring, straight before him into vacancy. Into realms only visible to the eyes of his spirit.

She came slowly to her feet, a tumult of thought distracting her. Yet she spoke quietly.

"There is nothing, Philip, that I would not do to serve you; no sacrifice I would not now make for you, save one. And even this one I would do at your bidding; but only at your bidding, so that afterwards you should have no right to spurn or reproach me, since the act would then be more yours than mine."

"Bid you?" he cried. "I bid you commit this infamy against yourself? This horror?" He paused, agitated with temptation, and when at last he completed his answer, it was but to give reasons why he could not complete it as she asked. "How can I bid you? It would shame my manhood."

"Why, then . . . You see, Philip?"

"What do I see?" The conflict within him, between his self-respect and his fear, between his manhood and his will to live, came forth in a torrent of petulance. "O Heaven! Don't ask me such questions! Don't tempt me with them. It is to agonize a man in my extremity. I love my life. It is sweet to me as the thought of death is horrible. Perhaps . . . this horror distorts my judgment, for to me it seems, it seems . . ."

He hesitated, still in pain, that conflict, then abruptly added: "It seems that a delirium is the lesser evil." Then in a voice of despair he said: "I do not know, I should not be asked. A delirium may be cleansed away. A life that is put out can never be rekindled."

She looked at him, and her eyes were as dead eyes in a face of stone. "Then bid me to do it, Philip. I will obey now, if you command me."

He struggled up in a state of revulsion. Perhaps a her tone had brought him a measure of self-contempt. "No, no," he cried. "Never! I will never command you to that. I neither bid nor bid I, Johanna. Do you understand? I forbid it! I forbid it! Do you hear, Johanna?"

I hear you, Philip," she answered steadily. "The door at the end of the hall was opened, and Cassaigne came in to announce that it was time for Master Danvelt to return to his cell."

He shuddered at that summons and clung a moment to Johanna, who stood silent and rigid.

"Pray for me, Johanna, if . . . if we do not meet again. God keep you, wife. God keep you!"

"God help you, Philip," she answered him.

She had a last glimpse of his white, piteous face before he vanished and the doors closed again. Then she sank into the chair which he had just vacated. Her lips were mumbling: "A delirium may be cleansed away; a life that is put out can never be rekindled."

His command upon her had been clear enough. Only shame had made him retract some part of it. But his command remained, and she was an obedient wife.

While she sat there, the door of Rhysaunt's closet opened. From the threshold, unobserved and unheard, he stood regarding her for some moments. Then he advanced towards her, his feet rustling through the rushes with which the stone floor was spread.

The sound disturbed her. She rose to face him, oddly calm.

He halted before her, a smile in his baleful eyes. "Well, mistress? Are you still of the same mind?"

Regarding him steadily, inscrutable of face and voice, she asked him:

"You offered me my husband's life, did you not?"

His eyes narrowed mistrustfully. "I did," he said slowly, "and I do again. For the last time, I will sign the order for his gall-delivery, so that you speak the necessary word."

Holly and fiercely came her answer: "Sign it, then, and I will speak the necessary word."

HON. MR. BENNETT LEAVES OTTAWA TO VISIT HOME CITY

(Canadian Press) OTTAWA, Ont., April 11.—Hon. R. B. Bennett, Deputy Prime Minister, left at noon today for the West. Mr. Bennett will spend the Easter recess at Calgary.

General A. D. McRae, chief of the military police, will leave early tomorrow morning for Vancouver. The Conservative convention for North Vancouver, at which General McRae will again be present, will be held at Powell River, B.C., on April 19.

The door at the end of the hall was opened, and Cassaigne came in to announce that it was time for Master Danvelt to return to his cell.

He shuddered at that summons and clung a moment to Johanna, who stood silent and rigid.

"Pray for me, Johanna, if . . . if we do not meet again. God keep you, wife. God keep you!"

"God help you, Philip," she answered him.

She had a last glimpse of his white, piteous face before he vanished and the doors closed again. Then she sank into the chair which he had just vacated. Her lips were

she cried, assuming that from her very tone he must guess the truth. But his wits, never penetrating, were now as dull as lead. "Price?" he echoed. "What price could be too high to pay for life?" Excitement grew in him. "Does that covetous captain want all our wits? Then yield to him. Yield all that I may live."

She interrupted him, her hands now clutching the arms of his chair. "Can you dream I should have hesitated had it been but that? Oh, don't you understand? The price he proposed to me was to be paid by me. By me."

He stared at her, and slow understanding pierced those heavy wits of his. The light of hope perished in his eyes, like a candle that is blown out. He covered his face with his emaciated hands.

"The dog!" she heard him mutter. There was a silence, at the end of which she spoke softly and gently. "You see, my dear, you could never have forgiven it, or . . . done otherwise than loathe that for your life."

Presently he asked a question: "And you? What . . . what did you answer me when I was?"

"As you would have me answer," slowly he nodded. "You refused."

He continued to sit there staring, straight before him into vacancy. Into realms only visible to the eyes of his spirit.

FEATURES of interest to music and art lovers are shown together in these photographs. The Alpine landscape shown here is a fine example of the work of Albert Goos, noted Swiss artist, who enjoys a wide celebrity throughout Europe and America and whose work art lovers will see in the late Spring at Toronto. Emma Otero, lady artist with the Easton Choral, Toronto, is the first Cuban soprano ever heard in that city and the first Cuban coloratura soprano to be heard in America. She was discovered by Gigli, the Italian tenor, when he was concertizing in Cuba. It is hard to believe that the wood carving of "Madonna and Child" shown here is the work of a seventeen-year-old apprentice at Greenwich Workshops, the only school of its kind in the United States. He did it in his spare time. Richard Crooks, American tenor, is also with the Easton Choral, and is well known in Toronto as the finest singer of Walther's Prize Song ever heard there. His first appearance in the Eastern city was with the National Chorus years ago. C. W. Jefferys, generally recognized as the greatest Canadian historical painter, whose history book illustrations are familiar to school children throughout the Dominion, has done some more splendid work in a series of sketches which will appear in book form. A splendid show of flower studies attracted considerable attention at the Jenkins Studio Building, Toronto, where Clara S. Hagarty, A.R.C.A., O.S.A., held an exhibit of her work recently. Miss Hagarty, who was for nine years a member of the staff of the Art Gallery of Toronto, has lately been specializing in this type of painting and is meeting with much success.

Barthelmess Hears How Chinese Say "Good Morning"

"Jo Shun" may mean nothing to you, but to Richard Barthelmess, First National screen star, it means "good morning"—in Chinese. Also to you, there is probably not the slightest familiar sound to "No Ho Lie mah," but Richard Barthelmess will tell you that it is "How are you today" in the language of Confucius, but he will also pronounce it correctly in the single Chinese way.

All this came about because Barthelmess had to learn several Chinese lines to speak in the course of "Son of the Gods," his newest starring vehicle, which comes to the Capitol Theatre next Monday.

"Son of the Gods" tells a dramatic story. There are several Chinese actors in the production, and Barthelmess studied his celestial lines required under the tutelage of Louis Vincent, a well-known Chinese scholar.

ROYAL "The Whole Town's Talking" the play which amused the Governor-General so much last Tuesday, finishes its run tonight after creating a most hilarious atmosphere all the week. This is certainly one of the best efforts of the English Players.

The last act, where the fight takes place in the dark and the final denouement, is certainly one of the funniest scenes possible. There will be no performance by the company next week.

COLUMBIA "The Viking" filmed in natural colors, is now showing at the Capitol Theatre. The story is said to bear a similarity in general plan to the "Great Events" scenario. It is a combination of historical fact and dramatic fancy; the exploits of "Lief the Lucky" and his comrades form the central theme, with the memorable voyage to what many historians believe to have been the mainland of America, in the year 1000, a vital factor in the narrative.

Canadian Net Body Roundly Criticized On Davis Cup Plans

Montreal Paper Pans Association for Secretive Work—Declares Players Not Yet Informed of Whether or Not Trials Will Be Held

MONTREAL, Que., April 12.—The Montreal Gazette today, in commenting on the approaching Davis Cup match with the United States, says in part:

"Just over a month remains before Canada's Davis Cup team of 1930 is scheduled to meet in the United States in the first round of international play at Philadelphia on May 15, 16 and 17, and still there is not the slightest announcement from the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association in regard to plans for the Dominion team. Presumably there are plans, but, as usual, negotiations are being carried on in the most secretive fashion, and even the players concerned find it impossible to state just what is going to happen."

"Last year for the first time since 1922, trials to select the members of the team were held in Toronto, and the results proved conclusively that the best men of the previous year are not necessarily in the best of shape to play in international competition in the early spring. This year again Canada is drawn to play in the middle of May, and now in the middle of April, ranking Canadian players are wondering whether there are going to be trials or just what is going to be done in selecting the team."

"Rumors, for that is all there is at present to work on, affirm that Dr. Jack Wright, of Montreal, and Gilbert Munns, of Toronto, will be named as members of the team without trial; that the remainder of the candidates, including such ranking players as Willard Crocker, Marcel Rainville and Charlie Leslie, of Montreal, and Leroy Rennie, of Regina, and Leroy Rennie, of Toronto, will be asked to play in some kind of trial matches, presumably at Toronto at the end of April. Of course if any of these are prevented from playing for one reason or another, they will not then be considered for the team."

In my above cartoon I am giving the fans an opportunity to vote on the way they think the clubs in the National League will finish next fall.

Send in your ballots, fans, and in the next few weeks I will give the results of the nation-wide opinion of the followers of the sport that make the game possible.

Do you think the Cubs will repeat? Will the Giants, Pirates or Cardinals be serious contenders this year? Will the "dark horse" Phillies, with their glowing outfit, headed by E. Dou and Klein, do a little better, repeating of the old Phillies of 1915, who were pitched to a pennant by Pal Moran?

Will Bill McKeehan at Boston become another "miracle man" like George Stallings in 1914?

These and many other questions will be answered by the fans in the next few weeks. Watch for it.

Commander Byrd flew in two directions at the same time. The South Pole is the point of our globe where the imaginary diurnal axis enters the earth. As a point it has neither dimension nor parts, but position. Over that point the cardinal directions converge. At the exact moment of Commander Byrd's flight over the Pole when the plane's center was over the mathematical point the tail of the plane was moving south while the front part was traveling in a northern direction. It is easy to verify this statement with the aid of any terrestrial globe.

Washington Oarsmen Capture Three Races

Huskies Make Clean Sweep Against University of California—Senior Crews Put Up Great Race at Lake Washington

SEATTLE, April 11.—With three mighty sweeps of his paddle, a great, strong, husky oarsman, the Washington Huskies cleaned up the lake in the twenty-second annual crew regatta between the University of California and Washington here today.

The Washington rowing fleet duplicated its feat of 1926 to fleet out victory in the three-mile varsity race and easily won the junior varsity and freshman events from the California Bears on the wind-lashed Lake Washington. It was the Huskies' first varsity victory in the last four years.

After leading from one-half to three-quarters of a length all the way down the long three-mile course, a fighting band of Bears gave

GOLF AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

How much of the average "dub's" trouble, in your opinion, is mental? How can you get rid of this trouble?

Answered by JOE TURNER

Eighty per cent of the golfer's troubles are mental, in my opinion; a golfer must concentrate on his swing and ball more than he does on the hazards that lurk about the golf course, which attract each and every golfer as he is about to play his shot.

For instance, a golfer stands on a tee, and if he observes that a slice will take him "out of bounds," he deliberately will stand wide open with his stance. When he swings down on the ball, his only ambition is to keep the ball from going to the right. Then he proceeds to slice his club, causing it to cut across the face of the ball and thereby getting a miserable slice, putting the ball "out of bounds," just where he did not want it to go. This runs generally with all the hazards on the golf course. He does not want to get into trouble, and therefore concentrates on his troubles instead of on his ball and swing.

80% of the Dub's trouble is mental

Following the ceremonies, John Mercer, president of the club, and Arthur Pass, vice-president, will select teams and the first match of the season will commence. For the past few weeks the greens have been given a great deal of attention under the supervision of Bill Washington, chairman of the greens committee, and they are pronounced in excellent shape for the opening.

The club is making rapid progress year after year, and with the advent of an efficient lighting system for the greens, which is now under way, the Burnside Club has prospects of being ranked as the best equipped lawn bowling rendezvous in the West.

In the evening, a card party will be held in the Hampton Hall, when George Vallance, P. Byng, J. Huddleston and Major Hibben will be guests.

Los Angeles Still Unbeaten in Coast League Ball—Missions and Oaks Turn in Victories

SEATTLE INDIANS WIN FROM SEALS

LOS ANGELES, April 11.—Ken Williams' two home runs which accounted for four of the five Portland runs today went to no avail here when the Angels rallied in the ninth to make a clean sweep of the opening series with a 6 to 5 victory. It was the fourth consecutive triumph for the locals.

A triple by Sigafos, intentional passes to Harper and Jacobs and a long drive into left field by Stals broke up the game to give the Angels the victory.

Batteries—Mills, Chesterfield and Woodall; Walsh, Peters and Skiff, Hannah.

INDIANS STOP SEALS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 11.—Louis Alameda's home run with the bases full, off John Millis in the fifth inning, gave Seattle a lead which never was relinquished in today's game with the Seals. The final score was 9-7.

Dutch Reuther, former San Francisco hurler, started for Seattle, but was forced to retire under a volley of abuse in the eighth inning. Kums finished for the Braves.

Batteries—Reuther, Kums and Borneau; Millis, McDougall, Curtis, Perry and Gaston.

MISSIONS EVEN SERIES

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 11.—The Missions evened up the season's first series here today by taking the fourth game from Sacramento, 10-3. Hurling another left-hander against the Missions in Lauri Vincl, Manager Budd Ryan had to jerk the southpaw in the fourth inning after the Killer slingers reached him for seven runs on six well-hit drives. Vincl's biggest trouble was wildness. Bert Cole hurled the victory for the Missions.

Batteries—Cole and Baldwin; Vincl and Kachler.

OAKS TAKE ONE

OAKLAND, Cal., April 11.—Oakland evened the series with Hollywood today with a 9-8 victory in the eleventh inning. Going into the last of the eleventh, Martin doubled and Arlet was purposely walked by Page.

Verges sacrificed and Griffin was purposely walked, filling the bases. Manager Oscar Vitt, of Hollywood, substituted Yde for Page, and before Yde had pitched the first ball Oakland had won the race. Martin came home on Yde's balk.

Batteries—H. E. H. Hollywood 9 11 2
Oakland 8 12 9
Eleven innings.
Batteries—Hansen, Page, Yde and Seaver; Andrews, Pearson, Hurst, Kachler and Lombardi, Rice.

ALL SQUARE AT TURN

Somerville was off to a good start, taking the first hole when Yde overdrove the green and needed a five. A birdie three by Voigt on the third squared the match and he reached the turn with all square, after Somerville had won the seventh and Voigt the ninth.

The second nine found Voigt hopping into an early lead by winning the twelfth with a birdie three.

Voigt scored par figures on the fourteenth to take the lead again when Somerville hit into a trap.

Both were fighting every inch of the way and on the next, a short par three hole, each had birdie two. Voigt required fives on the sixteenth and seventeenth, while Somerville was shooting in par figures.

Voigt staged a remarkable comeback on the eighteenth, holing a thirty-six-foot putt to win with a birdie three, but Somerville, on the first extra hole of play, retained with a spectacular birdie three, to take the match.

SOFTBALL LEAGUE EXTENDS DATE FOR ENTERING A WEEK

The closing date for receiving entries for the Victoria and District Softball League will be extended until April 18, according to word from Ralph Butler, president of the league. Up to last night twenty-one teams had entered and places for three more squads are open, as the league limits the total to twenty-four teams.

CREWS EVEN CHOICE ON EVE OF GREAT UNIVERSITY TILT

Dark Blues Will Have Small Advantage in Weight Over Light Blues for Big Rowing Classic on Thames Today—Rivals Have Gained Even Break in Eighty-One Races

Thousands Will Line Banks of River to Watch Historic Event

(Canadian Press)

PUTNEY-ON-THAMES, England, April 11.—The two university boat crews had a good tide running and a slight wind for their practice today—their last morning practice before the great race, which the setting of tomorrow's sun will see decided. On the issue of tomorrow's event, the crews were evenly matched, but the laurels for the win of a year, but a decision between the two crews which will probably break the tie in which the universities find themselves after more than a century of rowing on the Thames.

There are forty victories to the credit of Oxford; there are forty victories in the name of Cambridge, and one year saw a tie.

The varsity crews turned in early tonight for a good rest. Cambridge was the first to occupy the attention of a large crowd of spectators who watched the Cantabrigia rowing and paddling closely. Among those who watched, some claimed to find a slight falling off in style and pace. The Cantabrigia were not so lively and did not cover so much water between strokes as usual, but they were going easily and a last-day showing gives no indication whatever of coming performance.

The crews rowed ten strokes in fifteen seconds. The progress of the boat was impeded by Brocklebank, the stroke, who had some trouble with his oar. This showed improvement, however, during a minute's rowing.

Oxford rowed a minute, getting thirty-seven strokes. On the way back to the boathouse they indulged in paddling and kept the boat moving well.

Oxford and Cambridge will begin their second century of rowing when their eight-oared crews meet for the eighty-second time for their classic four and one-half-mile duel.

FIRST RACE IN 1896

The first race between the light blue and the dark blue took place in 1896. Since then they have rowed eighty-one races, each gaining forty victories. The 1877 was a dead heat. There were only a few races up to 1896, but since that time the boat race has become a national event. The only boat race of any importance—has been an annual event, with the exception of the war years from 1914 to 1919.

Oxford was dominant on the river for many years before the war, but has won only one race since the war was resumed in 1919. The 1923 Oxford crew, skated by W. P. Mellen, an American, was victorious. For the last six years Cambridge has been unbeaten, winning last year by seven lengths and the year before by an even greater margin.

Cambridge suffered a severe loss when Davies Cooke, No. 7, was forced out by illness and had great troubles when his veteran stroke, T. A. Brocklebank, developed a tendency toward catching crabs. Just after the eight had moved into the final stages of its training on the Thames, Oxford at times displayed a similar tendency toward sloppy rowing, but in the past week or two both eight have settled down to smooth work.

Oxford has turned in the best time trial so far, covering the full course a few weeks ago in 21:08, more than a minute and one-half slower than last year's winning time. This evidence of speed has served to make Oxford an even choice to win.

The only American representation in the race this year comes through R. E. Swartout, diminutive coxswain of the Middlesex School in Massachusetts. Swartout's home is in New York.

Only ten pounds of weight advantage will be held by Oxford in the historic clash with the Cam.

SLIGHT WEIGHT ADVANTAGE

The first fixture will commence at 7:30 o'clock, the second at 8:20 and the last and feature game about an hour later. Bob Whyte and "Red" Martin will officiate as referees.

Tonight's menu is a sweet one for the concluding basketball games of the season. The "Y" series, since they opened a month ago, have provided the fans with some high-class games as well as some of the biggest upsets of the year. The Colonists' defeat at the hands of Pedens was a week ago was unexpected, while the Harmony's great victory over the Red Birds was another upset.

Harmony will enter the fray against J.B.A.A. slight favorites, although the latter has been playing first-class basketball of late and may provide another surprise for the fans to gossip about. Keating and "Y" are pretty well evenly matched, and a great battle will, no doubt, take place.

The Pedens-Duncan affair is expected to be a nip-and-tuck game from whistle to whistle. Both squads have some of the best players on the island included in the line-up, and some classy playing by both sides is bound to be witnessed.

Champions of Knockout Series Will Be Named This Evening—Great Games Expected

PEDENS TO FACE DUNCAN QUINTETTE

The curtain will be rung down tonight on the Y.M.C.A. knockout basketball series, when six teams will be seen in action in the final rounds. Harmony #1 J.B.A.A. will face another in the opening game on the programme of the women's title, while Keating and the M.C.A. "B" quintettes will battle it out for the senior "B" laurels. Peden Brothers, local senior "A" team, and Duncan will step on the gym in the final round for the senior championship.

The first fixture will commence at 7:30 o'clock, the second at 8:20 and the last and feature game about an hour later. Bob Whyte and "Red" Martin will officiate as referees.

DETROIT, Mich., April 11.—Ray Miller, left hook artist, won on a technical knockout over Eddie Koppy, Detroit lightweight, in the fourth round of a scheduled ten-round bout at Olympia Arena here tonight. Miller weighed 131-2, Koppy 123-4.

VANCOUVER LIONS STOP BOSTON

Coast Champs Down Bruins by 3 to 1 in Exhibition Hockey

Eight Thousand Fans See Famed N.H.L. Team in Disappointing Showing—Joe Jerwa Nets Pair of Counters for Lions—Jackson Stars

VANCOUVER, April 11.—Vancouver Lions, Pacific Coast Hockey League champions, scored a well-earned 3 to 1 victory over the Boston Bruins, Stanley Cup finalists, in the first contest of a three-game post-season exhibition series here tonight. The locals, strengthened by the addition of two National Hockey League stars in the persons of King Clancy and Hec Kilrea, defenseman and wingman, respectively, of the Ottawa Senators, played sound and dashing hockey throughout. The Bruins, on the other hand, showed only flashes of the brand of hockey that carried them to the Stanley Cup finals in the East this season and which stamped them as one of the world's wonder teams of all time.

The visitors showed the effects of their long train ride from the East and looked as if they had not yet recovered from two bruising Eastern play-off series against Montreal

Maroons and Montreal Canadiens. The Lions jumped into a one-goal lead early in the first period when Clancy went down alone on the first of his numerous meteoric rushes, stepped between Hitchen and Shore, the Boston defensemen, and drove a bullet-like drive past Tiny Thompson, Bruin custodian.

JOE JERWA GETS TWO
The second session was scoreless. In the final session, Joe Jerwa went through alone for a brace of goals, to make it 3 to 0 for the locals. He got both as a result of sloppy work by the Boston defense, Hitchen and Shore looking bad on the two counters. The Bruins avoided shut-out when Clancy netted on a pass from Galbraith in the dying minutes of the game.

Eight thousand fans turned out to see the famed Bruins in action, and while they were disappointed at the poor showing put up by the Eastern visitors, they were highly elated at the Vancouver victory.

JACKSON SHOWS UP WELL
While Clancy and Joe Jerwa bore the brunt of the Boston attacks, Percy Jackson, the local goalie, performed nobly between the posts. Jackson got in front of many stinging drives from the sticks of Eddie Shore and company and played an air-tight game throughout. He had little chance on the one that Clancy put past him, it being from close in.

With the exception of Shore, big colorful Boston defenseman, who threatened periodically with his speedy weaving rushes, none of the Bruins were up to standard. The well-known "Dynamite Trio," Welland, Gainer and Clapper, failed to get going at any stage of the game. Just before the contest started, Mickey MacKay, veteran player and assistant coach of the Bruins, who formerly played for Vancouver in the old Pacific Coast major circuit, was presented with a set of golf clubs and bag by local admirers.

The Line-Ups
Vancouver: Goal—Thompson; J. Jerwa—Defense—Shore; Clancy—Defense—Hitchman; Beattie—Centre—Berry; Sanderson—Wing—Galbraith; McAdam—Wing—Oliver; Vancouver substitutes—F. Jerwa, Kilrea, Brennan, Dunn, Arnott, Cummings.
Boston: Goal—Clapper; Clapper, Carson, MacKay, Chapman.
Referee—Mickey Ion.

Summary
First period—Vancouver, Clancy, 3-0. Second period—No score. Third period—Vancouver, Joe Jerwa, 2-0. Total, Vancouver, 3-0. Penalties: Clancy, 1-12; 4. Boston, Clapper from Galbraith, 2-30. Penalties: Clancy, Welland, Barry, Brennan, Shore.

WESTS' LINE-UP

JAPANESE ACE AND HANSEN TO MEET TONIGHT

Former World's Ju Jitsu Wrestling Champion to Appear in Main Event at Tillicum Gym

"YOUNG" JACKSON TO OPPOSE BROOKS

TARŌ MIYAKE

East and West will meet at the Tillicum gymnasium tonight when Charlie Hansen, Swedish grappler, former world's champion, and Tarō Miyake, Japanese, in the eight-round main event of the Tillicum Athletic Club's wrestling card. Miyake has been tossing the boys around and pinning their shoulders to the mat for many years, and despite his age, is today rated as a dangerous opponent for any of the members of the younger school. Hansen, who has only tasted defeat once in the Sound city, is rated among the five leaders of present-day grapplers. Weighing approximately 200 pounds, strong as a lion and fully conversant with the tricks of the game, Hansen is a finished exponent of the pastime. He will undoubtedly give the Japanese ace an interesting time.

TOUGH ASSIGNMENT
"Rocky" Brooks, Victoria Iron Man, has another tough assignment in the semi-final, when he climbs over the ropes to meet Young Jackson, from the Bremerton Navy Yard. Jackson has to his credit a draw with Tara Ahar, Pasha, the Terrible Turk, who in his appearance at the Armories last week defeated Brooks. This is sufficient proof that Jackson knows his grappling game and will be capable of making things interesting for the "Iron Man."

In the curtain-raiser, Danny Pastore and Wilfred Shoultice, local fighters, will appear in a three-round bout. It will mark Shoultice's first appearance as a grappler. Pastore having made his debut on the Sonnenberg-Kruse bout.

Fred Richardson will referee all bouts, the first to start at 8:45 o'clock.

Kaye Don May Soon Abandon Speed Attempt

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., April 11.—Racing circles today discussed reports that Kaye Don, British racing driver, would abandon his attempt for a new world automobile speed record in the event he is unsuccessful again this afternoon.

Don, who in trials thus far has not approached the present standard of 231 miles an hour, denied the reports and indicated it might at least be a week before he gives up the attempt. Adverse weather, heat and motor conditions have been his path so far.

Don announced that he had again postponed his trials for the world automobile speed record because of bad beach conditions.

SCRIBES PICK PHILADELPHIA TO WIN AGAIN

Baseball Writers Give Athletics Wide Edge in Voting to Repeat in American Loop

YANKEES FIGURED TO FINISH SECOND

NEW YORK, April 11.—For the fourth consecutive year the boys who peer intently at the proceedings through the wire screens have set forth the pre-season baseball verdict. There is just one answer so far as the American League is concerned, that the Philadelphia Athletics will win again and probably do it easily.

Exactly sixty of the sixty-five major league baseball writers and editors who responded to the request of the Associated Press for their opinion, have selected the Athletics to make it two in a row. The remaining three, taking a long shot at the advance dope, named the Yanks to stage a comeback and pick up the pennant-winning habit where they left off in 1928.

The A's are the nearest thing to a unanimous choice in the four-year record of the Associated Press consensus. Last year, fifty-three of sixty-five picked the Athletics to win and later regretted it. In 1928 the New Yorkers were the choice of forty-two of forty-nine critics.

This is the first time that the Athletics have been favorites since 1927, when Connie Mack's colorful assembly of Cobbs, Speaker and Wheat failed to produce the expected results.

This is the order of finish that the baseball experts look for this year in the American League: Philadelphia, New York, Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis, Chicago, Washington and Boston.

The most improved clubs in the league, on the basis of the balloting, are the Detroit Tigers and the Chicago White Sox. Each is regarded as a long-shot contender by the critics.

Nevertheless, the majority opinion is that the Yanks and Cleveland Indians, finishing second and third last year, will furnish the world champions the keenest opposition of any entries.

"STRONG MAN" ACT IS WELL RECEIVED
"Rocky" Brooks, Victoria Iron Man, holds fans with feats of strength.

Bending three-quarter-inch iron bars in his mouth; six, eight and fifteen-inch spikes with his hands; driving five-inch spikes into a short plank and extracting them with his teeth, that's just a few of the "strong man" stunts that were presented to hundreds of Victorians yesterday afternoon and evening on the main floor of the Victoria Hotel.

And View Streets by "Rocky" Brooks, Victoria Iron Man. The show was presented under the auspices of the Tillicum Athletic Club, with the net proceeds going to the Mill Bay Solarium. The acts were well received. As an added attraction, a show club swinger, gave a short exhibition. Short of stature and as strong as a bear, Bolsh showed clubs weighing twenty-five pounds each and swung them around as if they were mere paper bags. At the conclusion he was given a great hand.

Blair Street, at this point, was closed to traffic, and a squad of police officers, under Traffic Inspector Boulton, handled the crowd in a manner worthy of comment.

Joe North, who is always interested in such projects, was responsible for collecting the money. It is understood that the Solarium will benefit to the extent of about $50.

Brooks had originally intended to demonstrate by holding four horses, but the failure of his special horses to arrive, necessitated the cancellation of this feat. However, Brooks assured the fans that he will present this act at a later date.

Greenham Plate Won By Christopher Robin

(Canadian Press)
NEWBURY, Eng., April 11.—Lieutenant-Colonel Giles Leder's brown colt, Christopher Robin, starting at favored odds of 9 to 4 against, today won the Greenham Plate of $5,000 for three-year-olds over a mile straight course. Commander F. W. V. Talbot-Ponsonby's brown colt, Rear Admiral, was second.

Three lengths behind the winner was Mrs. C. Rich's grey filly, Silver Mount, third, half a length back of Rear Admiral.

Rear Admiral started at odds of 100 to 6 against, and Silver Mount at 33 to 1 against. Twenty-one horses ran in the race, the feature of the opening day of the Spring meeting.

Christopher Robin is by Pharos, out of Dutch Marsh.

Dick Shikat Winner

PHILADELPHIA, April 11.—Richard Shikat, recognized by the New York and Pennsylvania Brand Commissions as world's champion heavyweight wrestler, successfully defended his title at the Arena tonight by downing Pat Spoke, Philadelphia, in 43-26. Shikat waited until the challenger had spent his strength and then threw him with comparative ease with a series of body slams.

ROEHAMPTON TOURNEY WON BY SEYMOUR

Half-Brother of A. Mitchell Defeats Veteran Fred Robson One Up in Final Match

VICTORY FIRST IN MAJOR TOURNAMENTS

LONDON, April 11.—Mark Seymour, a half-brother to Abe Mitchell, won the Roehampton professional golf tournament today, defeating the veteran Fred Robson, one up, in the final match.

In the semi-finals earlier in the day, Seymour eliminated youthful Henry Cotton, 2 and 1, and Robson trimmed J. G. Sharrock, 4 and 3. While this opening professional event of the season, with its rapid-fire eighteen-hole matches over a short course, hardly can be considered a championship test, Seymour played sound golf to dispose of Cotton, the favorite, and then Robson.

Seymour has been a pro for nine years, but never before has won a tournament against a field of leading British pros. He is thirty-three years old.

THOMPSON CUP FINAL CARDED

Victoria High School Soccer Eleven Will Oppose Nanaimo at Athletic Park at 12 o'clock

High school soccer teams representing Nanaimo and Victoria will clash at the Royal Athletic Park at 12 o'clock today in the Thompson Cup final. The locals have been training hard for the match, and after much weeding out, Coach Roper has named an eleven which he figures capable of giving the Up-Islanders plenty of fight.

To make mention of Nanaimo to local soccer fans means a strong club and one that is able to give a good account of itself.

The local team will line up as follows: Goal, Halbert and McKenzie; Patrick, Pund and Kennedy; Colgate, Dawson, Younan, Baply and Laird.

SPAIN QUIET AS ORDER IS COMING BACK

Reconciliation between the political chiefs and King Alfonso is proceeding apace. Count Gabino Bugallal, leader of the Conservatives, and Count Romanones, leader of the Liberals, have reached the Royal palace to pay homage to His Majesty after an absence of six years.

King Alfonso's service to the constitution when he dismissed General Primo de Rivera is becoming increasingly recognized, for it is evident that had the King acted otherwise, Primo would have remained in the face of opposition. Therefore the King championed the cause of the nation. On this incontrovertible argument is based the new-born loyalty of the political chiefs to the throne. Many old names are reappearing, and no new leaders are emerging.

TWO-PARTY SYSTEM
Endeavor is directed towards reviving two great parties so that they may turn and about in office as before. Many measures of the dictatorship are being rapidly undone, decree following decree. Reorganizing offices, making new appointments and realizing economies figures recently published by the new Finance Minister. It is noteworthy that there is an increase in the military and naval expenditures. The nation is admirably tranquil.

The famous boxing referee, Mr. Eugene Corrie, says that the placidest remark he ever heard made by a boxer was uttered by a novice on one of the National Sporting Club's trial nights.

The youngster was utterly and obviously outclassed, yet he would not give in.

Presently Corrie intervened. "When you're whipped, you're whipped," he said, "you ought to say you're had enough."

To which well-meant advice the bruised young boxer managed to gasp out:

"If I've strength left—to say I've had enough, I'm—not yet whipped."

MINISTER SEES PROGRESS IN MINE SAFETY

Effective Work at Britannia Plant, Howe Sound, Is Praised by Hon. W. A. McKenzie

DEMONSTRATION OF APPLIANCES

After paying a visit to the Britannia Mining and Smelting Company's plant at Britannia Beach, Hon. W. A. McKenzie, Provincial Minister of Mines and Labor, returned to his desk in the Legislative Buildings here yesterday. He was accompanied on his trip by Mr. Robert Dunn, Deputy Minister of Mines; Mr. James Dickson, Chief Inspector of Mines for British Columbia, and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Sanderson, of Seattle, Mr. Sanderson representing the American Mine Safety Appliances Company.

The party reached Britannia Beach on Wednesday morning, where they were received by Mr. C. P. Browning, general manager of the mining company. They went through and inspected the mill, where ore is concentrated; the foundry, co-operative stores and general offices of the company at the beach.

SAFETY FIRST WORK
That evening, the minister and other members of his party attended a theatre at Britannia Township, where pictures were shown of the operation of the Hollinger Mine in Ontario. Mr. James I. Moore, general mine superintendent, in a brief address told of the progress made by the Britannia Mining and Smelting Company in its inauguration of a safety first campaign. As a result of its educational propaganda in this connection, the company had succeeded in tracing the source of every accident, and showed how such mishaps might have been averted. Since the inception of the campaign, the loss of time through accident had been cut down by a substantial percentage, he said, and added that during the first quarter of 1930 there was practically a clean record as far as accidents were concerned at the company's plant.

Mr. McKenzie congratulated the Britannia company upon the success of its practical work in the safety first campaign, and the employees upon the keen interest they had taken in co-operating in this worthy movement. He said they could be sure of the active support and co-operation of the Department of Mines in every possible manner in this effective programme of reducing the number of accidents in the mines.

The minister commented upon the many evidences of the permanency of the camp. The manager's house was erected on a rock, the mill was built with concrete foundations, and the whole plant was constructed on plans which indicated enduring and prosperous operation. He mentioned the rest and well-built homes at Britannia, with fine gardens in many cases.

Later the party visited the Community Hall, and inspected an exhibit of devices for safety first, which had been worked out by the company's safety engineers. A first aid competition, in which six teams participated, proved an interesting demonstration. The contestants were complimented by Mr. McKenzie upon the skill and rapidly they displayed in the work. Several doctors officiated as judges.

Mr. McKenzie and party left Britannia Beach on Thursday morning by launch for Horseshoe Bay, from where they motored to Vancouver.

Ten other injured people are improving, though some are in serious condition.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M., April 11.—Ten injured men, survivors of the bus-train catastrophe in which nineteen persons were killed this morning at the Isleta railroad crossing, tonight were expected to recover, although at least six are in a serious condition.

Three of the injured, Conrad Houvers, Los Angeles; Homer Stein, San Francisco, and F. A. Wicker, Central City, Cal., were removed from the Santa Fe Hospital to St. Joseph's Hospital this afternoon.

One of the injured, William Richard Perkins, of Pueblo, and Ellis Huff, of Los Angeles, whose wife and son Kenneth were killed in the crash, were able to leave the hospital tonight to go to a hotel.

Many of the injured are suffering from head injuries and a slight concussion of the brain, and were unable to tell of the disaster. Houvers and Stein reiterated tonight their statement that they blamed the bus driver for not stopping at the crossing.

While the chief delegates are resting this week-end, the burden of whipping the London Treaty into form is left to the drafting committee.

Prime Minister MacDonald, international conferences—naval and Egyptian—besides the leadership of the House of Commons, went to Chequers tonight for a two-day rest.

PLENARY SESSION
The plenary session scheduled for 12.30 p.m. in St. James' Palace Monday, will not be a speech-making affair, but will be held merely for receiving the reports of various committees of experts.

Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson, speaking in London tonight, insisted that the conference had achieved great results. He predicted the summoning by the League of Nations of a world disarmament conference to complete them.

"A naval holiday has been agreed, because we hope between now and 1936 we may investigate afresh the whole question of naval policy in the hope the nations may come to a common agreement that monster vessels are no longer needed," he said.

"I regard the decision for a battleship holiday as of great importance. Not only has definite limitation been decided upon, but technical difficulties which hitherto stood in the way of progress have been done away with."

"I believe it will be agreed that although our hopes have not been realized we can look with genuine satisfaction on what the Naval Conference has achieved."

constituency, in spite of the fact that he was a civil servant, said Dr. Kaiser.

"It should be the Liberal party of the riding who should have the say in such matters," Dr. Kaiser asserted.

There was some bantering across the chamber.

"You will likely give him a good beating next time, too," interjected Hon. J. D. Chaplin, Conservative member for Lincoln.

"I am not sure of that in view of all the plans and schemes that have been formulated to carry this civil servant into the House," demurred Dr. Kaiser.

Dr. Kaiser went on to refer to the political activities of this "civil servant," when Mr. Chaplin interjected: "Serve notice on him doctor, that when he comes in we will put him where he belongs."

Dr. Kaiser said that one minister had put Mr. Moore where he belonged. The present Minister of Finance, he said, had "punctured the dream" of Mr. Moore to become Minister of Finance.

NOT TREATED PROPERLY
"Our lake fronts have not been treated properly," Dr. Kaiser declared, and the treatment to the Ottawa district in this regard was a discredit to the country.

Reverting to Mr. Moore, Dr. Kaiser read a church notice on the back of which it was stated that W. H. Moore would bring harbor matters to the attention of the Government.

The item afterwards carried. Other appropriations were passed as follows: Architectural branch, salaries of architects, etc., $83,000; engineering branch, salaries of engineers, etc., $300,000; for operation and maintenance of inspection boats, $26,000; maintenance and operation of water storage dams on Ottawa River, $40,000.

In connection with a vote of $440,000 for the National Monument on Connaught Place, Ottawa, Mr. Elliott explained the work was being done by Mr. Vernon March, the English sculptor. The item was approved.

A vote of $80,000 was passed for the Esquimaux graving docks. Further estimates for telegraph and telephone lines totaling $721,000 also passed. These included $121,000 for Alberta and Saskatchewan; $133,000 for British Columbia and Vancouver Island; $80,000 for the northern district, British Columbia; $142,500 for the Yukon system, and $4,000 for telegraph and telephone services generally.

Salaries of departmental officials totalling $700,530, and contingencies amounting to $90,000, were passed.

SUPPLY COMPANY FOR PRODUCERS

Dairymen and Poultrymen to Be Asked to Provide Money for Co-operative Society

VANCOUVER, April 11.—Appointment of a provisional directorate and incorporation of an egg producers' co-operative feed and supply company was decided on at a meeting held in Vancouver Thursday, at which representatives of organizations interested discussed plans.

Proposals for the formation of such a company were briefly discussed at the last annual meeting of both the Fraser River Milk Producers' Association and the British Columbia Egg Pool.

Following the appointment of a provisional directorate, meetings will then be held in every Lower Mainland riding district, and the object of the organization will be explained to dairy farmers, poultry men and others interested. If sufficient financial support in the way of purchase of shares is forthcoming, the project will be proceeded with, the ultimate plans providing for the purchase of the plant and equipment of one of Vancouver's milling companies, valuation of several of which has already been made.

"Now, Harold, said the school-mistress during the history lesson, 'when did William the Conqueror land in England?'"

A thoughtful look appeared on the face of the youthful schoolboy.

"Well, teacher," he said after a period of hard thinking, "I don't just remember."

"But surely, my boy," she said a little angrily, "you have read your books; and doesn't it state 'William the Conqueror, Hastings, 1066?'"

Harold's eyes opened wide with surprise.

"Why, yes," he replied; "but I always thought that was his telephone number."

FORMER BURNABY ENGINEER CHOSEN

Will Take Up Work Shortly at Nanaimo, in View of Waterworks Undertaking

NANAIMO, April 11.—A special meeting of the city council was held last evening, with Mayor Hall presiding.

The Waterworks Amendment By-Law, No. 469, which contains the new schedule of water rates, was brought up for final consideration and adopted.

On the suggestion of Mayor Hall the finance committee was authorized to negotiate the sale of debentures for the new water improvement by-law. It was also agreed that the debentures should be disposed of by private sale, so as to give the local brokerage office a chance to bid.

The council then took up the applications for the post of city engineer. Several applications had been received and two of the applicants, Messrs. F. T. Ames and A. G. Graham, appeared in person before the council.

After due consideration, the council gave the appointment to Mr. A. G. Graham at a salary of $300 per month. Mr. Graham will be ready to take over his duties by April 22, when the council hopes it will be in a position to start work on the new water improvement.

Mr. Graham is from Glasgow, where he served his apprenticeship and first started out in his profession. After that he served three years on the Gold Coast, West Africa, as a resident engineer in charge of harbor construction, railway and townsite works. He has been eleven years in British Columbia, the last two years of which he has been municipal engineer for Burnaby.

He is an associate member of the Engineering Institute of Canada, associate member of the Town Planning Institute of Canada, and a resident professional engineer of the Association of Professional Engineers of British Columbia.

HEALTH CENTRE

Nanaimo Public Health Nursing Council Holds Meeting

NANAIMO, April 11.—The annual meeting of the Nanaimo Public Health Nursing Council was held last evening in the Legion Hall, with Mrs. Barnard, the president, presiding. Excellent reports of the year's work were given, and following these, Dr. Berman, of the Saanich Health Centre, gave a most educational and inspiring address on the public health unit policy. He urged those present to work unceasingly for the establishment of a health centre for this district. He pointed out the fact that the health unit would be so much more effective in health education and prevention of disease, and would be no more expensive than the present system. A discussion followed, which was very helpful to those present.

The following executive board was elected for the year, the officers to be chosen at the first regular meeting: Mrs. Barnard, Mrs. B. Brown, Mrs. Davidson, Mrs. Hawthornthwaite, Mrs. Madill, Mrs. A. G. King, Mrs. MacRae, Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. T. Spencer, Mrs. R. T. Wilson, Mrs. Partington, Mrs. Oliver Randle, Mrs. C. J. Spencer, Mrs. Laguerre, Mrs. D. M. and Miss Clippert.

After due consideration, the council gave the appointment to Mr. A. G. Graham at a salary of $300 per month. Mr. Graham will be ready to take over his duties by April 22, when the council hopes it will be in a position to start work on the new water improvement.

CAR WRECKED BY FALLING TREE

Driver Has Narrow Escape When Tree Drops Across Highway

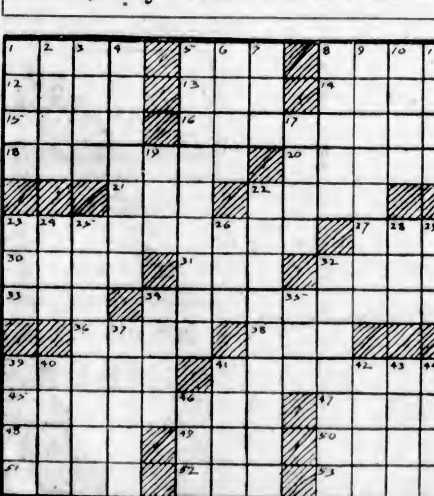

COURTENAY, April 11.—Missing the driver by a few inches, a large tree smashed the front of Mr. E. H. Huggan's car as it crashed to earth in the recent storm here. The radiator and front axle were crushed to the ground by the terrific blow. The tree had been weakened by fire a point on the Cumberland Highway, where the Provincial Department of Public Works is improving this section. Mr. A. R. Nunna, who was following the damaged car, rendered valuable assistance. The wrecked car was brought into town for repairs.

Habits of Play

CHEMUNUS, April 11.—On Tuesday, Miss Yates, of the Cowichan Health Centre, gave the fifth of her series of lectures on "Child Welfare" in the Knights of Pythias Hall. Taking for her topic "Habits of Play," Miss Yates gave an extremely interesting talk, dividing her lecture under the following headings: "Why do children play?" "Importance of play in the life of the child." "Mother's responsibility towards the child's play." "The play room, proper toys for children of different ages, and the care of them." "Outdoor play for older children." "The different stages of play in child life, i.e., solitary play, and group play." Miss Yates' next lecture will be given in the Knights of Pythias Hall on Wednesday night, April 16.

JAPANESE ACTOR TO RETURN HOME

Sessue Hayakawa, After Eight Years in United States, to Test Popularity in Japan.

Sessue Hayakawa, the Japanese actor who attained great fame in the United States, is reported to be returning to Japan on April 14, after an absence of eight years, on the N.Y.K. liner Asama Maru, says The Tokio Herald, of March 13.

On more than one occasion reports of Mr. Hayakawa's intended return to Japan were received here, but so far they have not materialized. This time, his friends say, he is sure to return here unless some unforeseen event interferes with his schedule.

An inquiry was received by cable from Mr. Hayakawa as to whether his immediate return to Japan is favorable to the company which is preparing for the establishment of a movie producing company in this country, adding that he desired to return here on the Asama Maru, leaving San Francisco on March 29. A reply was sent immediately that his immediate return to Japan would be welcome.

Charles Chaplin, the great comedian, may accompany Sessue. But this is 'uncertain. Chaplin expressed his desire to visit this country several times and last year he said that he would visit Japan during the cherry blossom season. This report is said to have given rise to reports of his arrival here on the Asama Maru with Sessue Hayakawa.

Sessue Hayakawa achieved fame and distinction on the American screen more than ten years ago. At first he portrayed Chinese or Japanese rogues. "Cheer," the picture in which he became famous by playing the part of a wicked Japanese, was utilized for anti-Japanese campaigns in California at a time when the anti-Japanese sentiment ran high, and, as a result, Hayakawa was attacked in certain circles of this country as a traitor to Japan.

About eight years ago when Hayakawa returned to Japan, laden with fame, he received a hearty welcome from his admirers, but certain sections of the people voiced protests against his return, dubbing him as a Japanese disloyal to the Emperor. But the motive of these persons in calling him names was said to be jealousy.

The jealousy of certain groups of actors in Japan was great, it is said, because Sessue had gone to America, as an unknown actor. In Japan he was a young actor of the new school and a relative of the late Otojuro Kawakami, one of the originators of the new school of plays in Japan, and in whose troupe Hayakawa toured the United States.

Leaving Japan after a short stay here eight years ago, Hayakawa continued to appear on the American screen often with his wife, Thurston Aoki. One of the later pictures of the Japanese actor was "La Bataille," a war picture.

A few years ago Sessue Hayakawa was on the motion picture and went on the stage. His acting at Broadway won fame in New York papers as being quite distinct, some papers saying that the length of the American actors should imitate him in certain respects.

At the conclusion of the Pridham case the court adjourned until Monday morning next. There remain two cases on the docket: Rex vs. Peter Smith, charged with murder; and Rex vs. Howie, charged with carnal knowledge.

Mr. Grantham Dies

He had no relatives in this country, but has one brother in England. The remains now repose in the D. J. Jenkins Parlors, pending funeral arrangements.

Bad Breath

Health Service of the Canadian Medical Association

A bad breath is altogether undesirable, and for that reason consideration should be given by everyone to the causes of the condition in order to avoid its occurrence.

The fermentation of food particles in the mouth will almost certainly cause a bad breath. This commonly occurs when food is held in a decaying tooth cavity. Proper care of the teeth, by brushing them regularly after meals and—most important of all—bedtime, in order to get rid of food particles, and by the securing of regular dental care will prevent bad breath from a source that is now common.

When there is actual disease of the mouth, such as pyorrhea, or of the adjoining parts, bad breath may result either from the condition itself or from the fermentation of food particles which the condition favors. A healthy throat and a mouth kept clean by regular use of the toothbrush are the first considerations in preserving an offensive breath.

In addition to the local conditions, which act as a cause of bad breath, there are general conditions which bring it about. We think, first, of the digestive tract because in our minds a bad taste in the mouth is frequently associated with digestive upsets. Bad breath does occur quite often among those who overeat, or whose elimination is faulty. The bad breath, in such cases, is really a symptom of an abnormal condition of the digestive tract and is regarded as such by the individual's physician.

Under such conditions, the remedy lies in altering the mode of living. A proper diet, avoidance of over-eating or of over-indulgence in one or more articles of diet, regular elimination, increased intake of water, and exercise are the points which should first be dealt with.

The correction of any unpleasant odors should always be thought of along the lines of the removal of the cause. It is much preferable to overcome body odors by regular bathing than by attempting to overpower them by using perfumes. In the same way, the logical manner of dealing with bad breath is to remove its cause.

The treatment of symptoms is necessary, but their care and the prevention of their recurrence depend upon the treatment of the cause, the root of the condition. It never pays to suppress, it is always more satisfactory to get to grips with the cause.

Questions concerning health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

Confessedly, West must hold a side trick soundly to bid a Heart originally on a suit headed by the A-Q, but such side trick could be, for all East knows to the contrary, the K-Q of Diamonds, in which suit not even five odd can be made with the hand, as opponents have three Aces against such contract.

It was only recently, in fact, while playing in the National Championship for the Vanderbilt Cup, that my partner jumped my original Third Hand one Heart bid to five—a bid that lost the particular match, as all I could make on the hand was four odd. My partner, in jumping my bid to five Hearts, assumed, justifiably perhaps, but surely, that I, in order to open the bidding Third Hand, must hold at least one Ace and if so, then five odd was certain and if I held more than one Ace, then I could go to six odd. As a matter of fact, I opened the bidding Third Hand with an array of Kings, Queens and Jacks without an Ace in my hand. From observation and experience I have found that the K-Q-J of a suit will take two tricks, whereas the Ace of such suit will take one; thus I would infinitely prefer to open the bidding with four Kings, Queens and Jacks suits than I would with four Aces—doubtless except for the honor count.

My argument in the matter is that a forcing take-out by East of two Spades to force a further bid by West before embarking upon a contract of more than game, can lose nothing and may gain.

If, following the forcing take-out of two Spades, West fails to evince by his response sufficient strength to encourage East by a further forcing take-out to bid a Slam, East should, following such non-committal response by West, bid for game only.

As it so happened, West responded to East's demand for a further bid with three No Trumps, to show considerably greater high card strength than was evidenced by his original bid.

So encouraged, East now gives his jump bid to five Hearts to show that his real objective was a Slam in Hearts, provided West held the added strength that would justify such attempt.

The game hands that are over-bid and the Slam hands that are under-bid because of immediate jump bids beyond game with hands that could well warrant feeling out, by a forcing take-out, whether or not the combined hands contained more than game possibilities are too numerous to mention.

Also, in my opinion and in the opinion of many others of our leading Contract experts, the best opportunity for a forcing take-out, because one in which the take-out bidder can never get into difficulties, is when holding unique support, for the suit originally named by partner, to which he can always run regardless of the initial bidder's response to the forcing take-out.

SALENT POINTS OF THE BIDDING

Auction: South passing, West bids one Heart, concluding the bidding, as East can have no occasion in Auction to increase or change such contract with his holding.

Contract: The bidding in Contract starts the same as in Auction, but changes radically by reason of East's preliminary forcing take-out of two Spades to test the possibility of a Slam with a hand with which he is surely going to bid at least game following West's response to the forcing take-out.

Two Way: As heretofore stated, West, with three Aces, responds with three No Trumps; East, with five Hearts and West, with six Hearts, concluding the bidding.

North opens the King of Diamonds. The Dummy going down, West wins with the Ace and leads two rounds of trumps, exhausting the four adverse trumps. He next

NEW VISIBLE SHOE FITTER TO BE SHOWN

Demonstrations of Clever Device Will Be Given at Ladies' Sample Shoe Shop

For years mothers have had to face the difficult problem of buying the right shoes for the kiddies, shoes which sometimes pinched and cramped little toes, or, more often than not, were far too large and allowed little feet to spread and relax too much. An ingenious shoe expert from Hamilton, Ont., has solved the difficulty, and has introduced a new fitting-shoe, together with a special line of "Jack and Jill" cushion-soled health shoes. The shoes come in all styles and colors and every size has its special individual visible fitter. They may be had with either leather or ekhide soles. The fitter is fashioned like an ordinary shoe, with the exception that the toe is made of mica thus enabling the assistant in the shoe shop to see exactly how the foot is placed in the shoe, whether there is ample room for the toes and that a perfect fit is assured.

At the Ladies' Sample Shoe Shop, Yates Street, this new visible fitter is to be demonstrated today at 2:30, 3:30 and 4:30 o'clock. A number of little children are to act as mannequins, these being Patsy Scumrah, Joan Gill, David Webb, Marilyn Le Page, while Erna Maynard, Jean Appleyard and David Monk and Winston Maynard are to assist in trying on the shoes for the mannequins.

Ten Times Your Income!

DOES your estate amount to ten times your income?

If so you have made unusually good provision for the future. You have assured yourself and family of an income equal to one-half your present earnings.

Suppose, for example, that you earn $3,000 a year . . . and your estate is ten times that, or $30,000. This total at five per cent. interest will yield $1,500 a year. Sufficient, perhaps, to make it possible for you to live independently in your old age. Sufficient, too, to enable your wife and family to "carry on" if they are left alone.

If your estate does not measure up to this standard, the simplest and quickest way of bringing it up to requirements is through Life Insurance. Millions of people have built estates "on the installment plan" with the aid of Life Insurance. And in so doing they have safeguarded the future for themselves and those whom they hold most dear.

Ask your Life Insurance Representative to explain to you the many advantages of an estate founded on Life Insurance.

Secretary Elmer Thomas of the Automobile Club told an automobile story at a luncheon in New York. "A man rattled into a garage in a very old cheap car the other day," said Mr. Thomas, and asked what the rate was. "I got to ask you for a five-spot," said the garagist. "In advance," he added. "My goth," said the car-owner. "A five-spot in advance! But I'll come for the car in the morning." "Ah," said the garagist, "that's it. Will you come?" High Drow. He gave vent to a loud series of equine cacklings. Low Brow. I get you. You must have a horse laugh.
